The Africa Competitiveness Report 2007:

Africa Development Indicators 2007 World Bank, 2008 The world's demand for food is expected to double within the next 50 years while the natural resources that sustain agriculture will become increasingly scarce degraded and vulnerable to the effects of climate change In many poor countries agriculture accounts for at least 40 percent of GDP and 80 percent of employment At the same time about 70 percent of the world's poor live in rural areas and most depend on agriculture for their livelihoods World Development Report 2008 seeks to assess where when and how agriculture can be an effective instrument for economic development especially development that favors the poor It examines several broad questions How has agriculture changed in developing countries in the past 20 years What are the important new challenges and opportunities for agriculture Which new sources of agricultural growth can be captured cost effectively in particular in poor countries with large agricultural sectors as in Africa How can agricultural growth be made more effective for poverty reduction How can governments facilitate the transition of large populations out of agriculture without simply transferring the burden of rural poverty to urban areas How can the natural resource endowment for agriculture be protected How can agriculture's negative environmental effects be contained This year's report marks the 30th year the World Bank has been publishing the World Development Report

Humanitarian Response Index 2008 DARA (Development Assistance Research Associates), 2016-01-18 The purpose of this annual report is to develop an index of good humanitarian donorship that will measure donors effectiveness against their commitment to the Principles and Good Practice of Humanitarian Donorship The index is intended to help the international donor community to better understand its strengths and weaknesses in order to improve the efficiency and quality of its donor activities and initiatives The index is also expected to raise awareness about the increasingly important role of humanitarian action and associated good practices beyond its current core constituencies We believe that this report offers significant potential to improve the quality of humanitarian aid benefiting those most affected by both man made and natural disasters

Africa Development Indicators 2007 World Bank, 2008 Africa Development Indicators 2006 provides the most detailed collection of data on Africa available in one volume It contains about 450 macroeconomic sectoral and social indicators covering 53 African countries Additional data may be found on the companion CD ROM World Bank Africa Database 2006 covering about 1 200 indicators from 1965 to 2004 Book Jacket Global Monitoring Report 2008 World Bank,2008-04-14 Global Monitoring Report 2008 the fifth in an annual series is essential reading for those who wish to follow the global development agenda and debate in 2008 The year marks the midpoint toward the 2015 deadline for achieving the Millennium Development Goals MDGs It is also an important year to work toward a consensus on how the world is going to respond to the challenge of climate change building on the foundation laid at the Bali climate change conference in December 2007 The report spans this agenda It provides a comprehensive assessment of progress toward the MDGs and related policies and actions It addresses the challenge of climate change and environmental sustainability and assesses its implications for development The report s assessment of MDGs at midpoint presents a mixed picture one of both significant progress and formidable challenges The first MDG reducing extreme poverty by half is likely to be met at the global level thanks to a remarkable surge in global economic growth over the past decade But on current trends the human development MDGs are unlikely to be met Prospects are gravest for the goals of reducing child and maternal mortality but shortfalls are also likely in the primary school completion nutrition and sanitation MDGs The potential effects of climate change compound the challenge of achieving the development goals and sustaining progress The report s messages are clear urgent action is needed to help the world get back on track to achieve the MDGs and urgent action is also needed to combat climate change that threatens the well being of all countries but particularly of poor countries and poor people The goals of development and environmental sustainability are closely related and the paths to those goals have important synergies The Global Competitiveness Report 2008-2009 Klaus Schwab,2008 Globalization and Sustainable Development in Africa Bessie House-Soremekun,Toyin Falola,2011 The first comprehensive work on globalization within the context of sustainable development initiatives in Africa Trade and Industrial Development in Africa Moyo, Theresa,2015-03-02 This book revisits the perennial challenge that scholars economists and politicians have been grappling with since the 1960s Development in this book has been defined in a context that projects it as a multidimensional and complex process which seeks to enhance the human social economic and cultural welfare of the people This book calls for a rethinking of trade and industry for Africa s development It uses data drawn from national development plans and strategies and trade and industry issues have been prioritized at the continental level in key policy documents On the whole Africa s industry and trade performance have been poor in spite of national regional and continental plans The contributors to this volume propose some alternative strategies and policies which are necessary for trade and industry to grow and to contribute to the well being of Africa s people It calls for a developmental trade and industry policy which fundamentally must be people centred African states should invest time energy and resources to develop policies which will take into consideration African realities The different contributors are aware that Africa has experienced strong economic growth in the recent past but this growth has largely been due to a strong demand for Africa's primary commodity exports. It has also been a result of increases in productivity and domestic investment and remittances from Africans living in the Diaspora. It is important to note that despite this unprecedented growth performance, the impact of trade and industry on development has been limited. The book argues that a structural transformation of Africa's economies is inevitable if Africa is to achieve the shift from the dominant paradigm of production and export of primary goods. The various contributors to this book agree that there is a need to rethink policy and strategy in order to achieve industrial development in Africa. There is no unique solution or answer that can fit all situations as African countries are not the same. While Africa can draw lessons from other regions which have successfully industrialized, this book argues that policies and strategies will have to be adapted to country-specific situations and circumstances.

The CFA Franc Zone Ms. Anne Marie Gulde, Mr. Charalambos G. Tsangarides, 2008-04-02 About one third of countries covered by the IMF's African Department are members of the CFA franc zone. With most other countries moving away from fixed exchange rates, the issue of an adequate policy framework to ensure the sustainability of the CFA franc zone is clearly of interest to policymakers and academics. However, little academic research exists in the public domain. This book aims to fill this void by bringing together work undertaken in the context of intensified regional surveillance and highlighting the current challenges and the main policy requirements if the arrangements are to be carried forward. The book is based on empirical research by a broad group of IMF economists with contributions from several outside experts.

Awakening Africa's Sleeping Giant Michael L. Morris, Hans P. Binswanger-Mikhize, Derek Byerlee, 2009 Awakening Africa's Sleeping Giant explores the feasibility of restoring international competitiveness and growth in African agriculture through the identification of products and production systems that can underpin rapid development of a competitive commercial agriculture. Based on a careful examination of the factors that contributed to the successes achieved in Brazil and Thailand as well as comparative analysis of evidence obtained through detailed case studies of three African countries: Mozambique, Nigeria, and Zambia, the authors argue that opportunities abound for farmers in Africa to Africa in World Politics John W. Harbeson, Donald Rothchild, 2018-04-24 The sixth edition of Africa in World Politics focuses on challenges African states face in constructing viable political economies in contexts both of familiar domestic challenges and an unprecedented mix of engagements, opportunities, and threats emanating from a turbulent and rapidly changing international order. This text, including new chapters on Nigeria and the influence of party politics on economic development, remains an invaluable resource for students of African politics seeking to navigate the continent's complex political and economic landscapes. Revised chapters consider both the extent and the limits of continued healthy growth rates in many countries, the impacts of investments by China and other BRICS countries, plateaus and some reversals in progress on human rights and democratization, dimensions of chronic state weakness deepened by insurgencies including some that are connected to Al Qaeda and the Islamic State, and peacebuilding efforts struggling to uphold responsible sovereignty in the Sudans, the Great Lakes region, and elsewhere.

Chinese Investment in Africa David N. Abdulai, 2016-11-03 China leads the world when it comes to investment and influence on the African continent. The extent of Chinese investment in Africa is well known and much has been written about China's foray into Africa. However, most of the available material has approached this issue by looking at China as the New Colonialist, more interested in Africa's vast natural resources than working in partnership for sustained development. Whilst China's interest in Africa's resources is evident, it is just half of the story. China's foray into Africa goes beyond its appetite for natural resources and into the realm of geo-politics and international political economics. For example, China is all too aware of how it can cultivate Africa's support on global issues at the United Nations and at other international fora. Breaking free from the binary arguments and analysis which characterize this topic, Professor Abdulai presents a refreshing perspective that China's foray into Africa can produce win-win outcomes for China and Africa if Africans really know what they want from China. Hitherto, each African country has tended to engage China with an individual bucket list acting in isolation and not as part of a wider continent. Indeed, Africa and the African Union does not yet have a coordinated policy towards China. For Africa to be able to do that, it needs to know where China is coming from, the factors that contributed to its awakening and success, and the benefits and possible pitfalls of this foray in order to better position itself for a win-win engagement with China. This book will be a valuable read for policy makers, think tanks, and students of Africa studies programmes alike.

Economics Of The Middle East And North Africa (Mena), The (Second Edition) Joseph Pelzman, 2018-11-29 The Middle East and North Africa (MENA) is a large, complex, and diverse region which faces a wide range of economic issues. The MENA group includes Algeria, Bahrain, Cyprus, Djibouti, Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Israel, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Morocco, Oman, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Tunisia, Turkey, United Arab Emirates, and Yemen. The purpose of this book is not to provide a country-by-country study but rather to deal with general economic themes found in Arab MENA and Israel, such as problems associated with growth and structural change, the role of State intervention in country-specific local markets, labor market imperfections driven by gender bias, technology gaps, and endogenous growth, capital market development in a restricted financial model based on religious constraints, savings and investment behaviour in a model of state subsidization and intervention designed to control local development, and the role of the state in constraining private sector activity. Data sources used in this second edition include country-specific data from the World Bank, the United Nations, the International Monetary Fund, and the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development. The new material in this second edition includes a discussion of the impending and inevitable leadership changes which will occur throughout Arab MENA over the next decades. The evidence to support this evaluation is based on the current lack of transparent markets, the lack of inclusive macro policies, the impact of distortionary micro-economic policies across all sectors, and the impact of anti-globalization and xenophobia on innovation. Old chapters are revised with updated data, a discussion of the role of the State and Oligarchies in the economies of most of the MENA countries, an in-depth exploration of the investment in human capital and growth, and an identification of the most important binding constraints to economic development in Arab MENA and Israel This book serves as both a textbook and a summary of the very large literature on MENA It examines the economic realities of the region and compares them across the MENA economies It should be stressed that this book is not about the latest political debate on who did what to whom in the Middle East or in North Africa The focus is on economics not political economics Organizational
