World History Text Chapter Section 3:

The Patchwork of World History in Texas High Schools Stephen Jackson, 2022-11-30 This book traces the historical development of the World History course as it has been taught in high school classrooms in Texas a populous and nationally influential state over the last hundred years Arguing that the course is a result of a patchwork of competing groups and ideas that have intersected over the past century with each new framework patched over but never completely erased or replaced the author crucially examines themes of imperialism Eurocentrism and nationalism in both textbooks and the curriculum more broadly The first part of the book presents an overview of the World History course supported by numerical analysis of textbook content and public documents while the second focuses on the depiction of non Western peoples and persistent narratives of Eurocentrism and nationalism It ultimately offers that a more global accurate and balanced curriculum is possible despite the tension between the ideas of professional world historians who often de center the nation state in their quest for a truly global approach to the subject and the historical core rationale of state sponsored education in the United States to produce loyal citizens Offering a new conceptual understanding of how colonial themes in World History curriculum have been dealt with in the past and are now engaged with in contemporary times it provides essential context for scholars and educators with interests in the history of education curriculum studies and the teaching of World History in the United States

Roman Law in the Modern World: History of Roman law and its descent into English, French, German, Italian, Spanish, and other modern law Charles Phineas Sherman, 1917 Islam and Muslim Civilization Susan Douglass, 1995-01-01

Analysing Historical Narratives Stefan Berger, Nicola Brauch, Chris Lorenz, 2021-05-14 For all of the recent debates over the methods and theoretical underpinnings of the historical profession scholars and laypeople alike still frequently think of history in terms of storytelling Accordingly historians and theorists have devoted much attention to how historical narratives work illuminating the ways they can bind together events shape an argument and lend support to ideology From ancient Greece to modern day bestsellers the studies gathered here offer a wide ranging analysis of the textual strategies used by historians They show how in spite of the pursuit of truth and objectivity the ways in which historians tell their stories are inevitably conditioned by their discursive contexts

China and the European Union

Lisheng Dong, Zhengxu Wang, Henk Dekker, 2013-03-12 The European Union is China's largest trading partner and Chinese views of the EU are of crucial importance in shaping how the relationship will develop in the future especially as the new Chinese leadership takes power This book presents the findings of an extensive research project into the views of both elite groups in government business academia media and social activists and the Chinese public towards Europe and the European Union It considers attitudes on a wide range of subjects and reaches a number of interesting encouraging conclusions These include the fact that as Chinese people s knowledge of and travel to Europe becomes more extensive Chinese attitudes towards Europe become more positive that Chinese people have a high regard for European culture and a high degree of trust in Europeans though there are significant differences between different Chinese groups concerning controversial issues in the China EU relationship Overall the book concludes that the Chinese public opinion supports a strong bilateral relation
