World Jet Fuel Report:

Reports and Documents United States. Congress, Biofuels for Aviation Christopher Chuck, 2016-06-02 Biofuels for Aviation Feedstocks Technology and Implementation presents the issues surrounding the research and use of biofuels for aviation such as policy markets certification and performance requirements life cycle assessment and the economic and technical barriers to their full implementation Readers involved in bioenergy and aviation sectors research planning or policy making activities will benefit from this thorough overview The aviation industry s commitment to reducing GHG emissions along with increasing oil prices have sparked the need for renewable and affordable energy sources tailored to this sector s very specific needs As jet engines cannot be readily electrified turning to biofuels is the most viable option However aviation is a type of transportation for which traditional biofuels such as bioethanol and biodiesel do not fulfill key fuel requirements Therefore different solutions to this situation are being researched and tested around the globe which makes navigating this scenario particularly challenging This book guides readers through this intricate subject bringing them up to speed with its current status and future prospects both from the academic and the industry point of view Science and technology chapters delve into the technical aspects of the currently tested and the most promising technology in development as well as their respective feedstocks and the use of additives as a way of adapting them to meet certain specifications Conversion processes such as hydrotreatment synthetic biology pyrolysis hydrothermal liquefaction and Fisher Tropsch are explored and their results are assessed for current and future viability Presents the current status of biofuels for the aviation sector including technologies that are currently in use and the most promising future technologies their production processes and viability Explains the requirements for certification and performance of aviation fuels and how that can be achieved by biofuels Explores the economic and policy issues as well as life cycle assessment a comparative techno economic analysis of promising technologies and a roadmap to the future Explores conversion processes such as hydrotreatment synthetic biology pyrolysis hydrothermal liquefaction and Fisher Tropsch Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports ,1994 Green Aviation Emily S. Nelson, D.R. Reddy, 2018-06-12 Aircraft emissions currently account for 3.5% of all greenhouse gas emissions The number of passenger miles has increased by 5% annually despite 9/11 two wars and gloomy economic conditions Since aircraft have no viable alternative to the internal combustion engine improvements in aircraft efficiency and alternative fuel development become essential This book comprehensively covers the relevant issues in green aviation Environmental impacts technology advances public policy and economics are intricately linked to the pace of development that will be realized in the coming decades Experts from NASA industry and academia review current technology development in green aviation that will carry the industry through 2025 and beyond This includes increased efficiency through better propulsion systems reduced drag airframes advanced materials and operational changes Clean combustion and emission control of noise exhaust gases and particulates are also addressed through combustor design and the use of alternative fuels Economic imperatives from aircraft lifetime and maintenance logistics dictate the drive for drop in fuels blending jet grade and biofuel New certification standards for alternative fuels are outlined Life Cycle Assessments are used to evaluate worldwide biofuel approaches highlighting that there is no single rational approach for sustainable buildup In fact unless local conditions are considered the use of biofuels can create a net increase in environmental impact as a result of biofuel manufacturing processes Governmental experts evaluate current and future regulations and their impact on green aviation Sustainable approaches to biofuel development are discussed for locations around the globe including the US EU Brazil China and India ICAO Journal ,1994 Official magazine of international civil aviation The Global

Branagan,2013-06-28 Militarism is the elephant in the room of global warming Of all government sectors Defence has the highest carbon footprint and expenditure yet has largely been exempt from international scrutiny and regulation Marty Branagan uses Australian and international case studies to show that nonviolence is a viable alternative to militarism for national defence and regime change Active resistance initiated in Australian environmental blockades and now adopted globally makes the song We Shall Not Be Moved much more realistic as activists erect tripod villages bury chain and cement themselves into the ground and lock on to machinery and gates Active resistance artistic activism and use of new information and communication technologies in movements such as the Arab Spring and Occupy demonstrate that nonviolence is an effective evolving praxis
