research in human geography Industrial Property Rick Ball, Andy C. Pratt, 2018-01-12 This volume first published in 1994 is the first collection of original research on the relationships between industrial property and economic development. The contributors all specialists in their field highlight the emerging conflicts between the users and the providers of industrial premises conflicts that may undermine economic potential. The need for flexibility in the use and provision of industrial premises is explored in three contexts: the transformation of the urban fringe, the development of hi tech premises and the redevelopment of old or derelict premises The Garden City Stephen Victor Ward, 1992 A critical and scholarly examination of the origins, implementation, international transference and adaptation of the garden city idea and a consideration of its continuing relevance in the late 20th and 21st centuries Housing Markets in the United States and Japan Yukio Noguchi, James M. Poterba, 2007-12-01 Although Japan and the United States are the world's leading economies, there are significant differences in the ways their wealth is translated into living standards. A careful comparison of housing markets illustrates not only how living standards in the two countries differ but also reveals much about saving patterns and how they affect wealth accumulation. In this volume ten essays discuss the evolution of housing prices, housing markets and personal savings, housing finance, commuting and the impact of public policy on housing markets. The studies reveal surprising differences in housing investment in the two countries. For example, because down payments in Japan are much higher than in the United States, Japanese tend to delay home purchases relative to their American counterparts. In the United States, the advent of home equity credit may have reduced private saving overall. This book is the first comparison of housing markets in Japan and the United States and its findings illuminate the effects of housing markets on productivity, growth, business investment and trade Food Waste Reduction and Valorisation Piergiuseppe Morone, Franka Papendiek, Valentina Elena Tartiu, 2017-04-26 This book adds a new dimension to the sustainability assessment of food waste reduction and valorisation policy analysis. Featuring a transdisciplinary analysis by key experts in the field, it identifies the drivers of change in food waste reduction and valorisation technologies by looking, for example, at the regulatory framework and at policy actions undertaken by local and global actors. The book explores the development of regulations and policies for food waste prevention, management and valorisation at a global as well as European Union level. It also discusses the notion of food waste in legal terms and investigates the effects of the lack of a standard universal definition of food waste on the efficient use of by-products promising processes and products for technological and commercial exploitation. Utilising mathematical mapping methods to assess food consumption impacts and providing supply chain models that allow the testing of consumption scenarios, the book goes on to discuss a series of emerging technologies tested at lab scale and/or pilot scale and opportunities for the valorisation of food waste The Governance of the Countryside, Building on the Past G. McGill, 2003-09-02 This comprehensive guide provides planners, developers, architects and archaeologists with an analysis of the conflicts between the archaeological development and planning processes. It takes a pragmatic approach to the effects of archaeology on development enabling practitioners to reach practical solutions where archaeological considerations are taken into account in the development process

Private Property, Community Development, and Eminent Domain Robin Paul Malloy, 2016-04-15 The contributors in this volume address the fundamental relationship between the state and its citizens and among the people themselves Discussion centers on a recent decision by the United States Supreme Court in the case of Kelo v City of New London This case involved the use of eminent domain power to acquire private property for purposes of transferring it by the State to another private party that would make better economic use of the land This type of state action has been identified as an economic development taking In the Kelo case the Court held that the action was legal within provisions of the US Constitution but the opinion was contentious among some of the Justices and has been met with significant negative outcry from the public The Kelo case and the public debate arising in its aftermath give cause to assess the legal landscape related to the ability of government to fairly balance the tension between private property and the public interest The tension and the need to successfully strike a balance are not unique to any one country or any one political system From the United States to the United Kingdom to the People's Republic of China property and its legal regulation are of prime importance to matters of economic development and civic institution building The Kelo decision therefore explores a rich set of legal principles with broad applicability

Boom Bust Fred Harrison, 2010-01-01 Not employment or inflation as argued during the Great Depression and years of Reaganomics the mechanism that drives the business cycle is proven to be the housing and property market in this analysis of the instability of financial markets The consequences of how neoclassical economics ignores the importance of land are presented in a discussion of the dot com crash Agricultural industrial and commercial property and the housing market are examined to suggest that policymakers must revise their treatment of land in economic decisions to avoid the next economic crash predicted for 2010 Sources of Non-Official UK Statistics David Mort, 2017-05-15 First Published in 2017 This volume gives details of nearly 1000 publications and services including electronic publications produced by trade associations professional bodies banks consultants employers federations forecasting organizations and others together with statistics appearing in trade journals and periodicals Titles and services are listed alphabetically by publisher and each entry contains information where available on subject content and source of statistics as well as frequency and cost and address telephone and fax details for further information This updated edition also includes details of internet sites and information on whether statistics are available on those sites
