Serials in Microform ,1976 Teaching Machines Audrey Watters,2021-08-03 How ed tech was born Twentieth century teaching machines from Sidney Pressey's mechanized test giver to B F Skinner's behaviorist bell ringing box. Contrary to popular belief, ed tech did not begin with videos on the internet. The idea of technology that would allow students to go at their own pace did not originate in Silicon Valley. In Teaching Machines, education writer Audrey Watters offers a lively history of predigital educational technology from Sidney Pressey's mechanized positive reinforcement provider to B F Skinner's behaviorist bell ringing box. Watters shows that these machines and the pedagogy that accompanied them sprang from ideas: bite-sized content, individualized instruction that had legs, and were later picked up by textbook publishers and early advocates for computerized learning. Watters pays particular attention to the role of the media: newspapers, magazines, television, and film in shaping people's perceptions of teaching machines, as well as the psychological theories underpinning them. She considers these machines in the context of education reform, the political reverberations of Sputnik, and the rise of the testing and textbook industries. She chronicles Skinner's attempts to bring his teaching machines to market, culminating in the famous behaviorist's efforts to launch Didak 101, the pre-verbal machine that taught spelling. Alternate names proposed by Skinner include Autodidak, Instructomat, and Autostructor. Telling these somewhat cautionary tales, Watters challenges what she calls the teleology of ed tech: the idea that not only is computerized education inevitable, but technological progress is the sole driver of events.
