Learning a Living United States. Department of Labor. Secretary's Commission on Achieving Necessary Skills,1992

Workplace Competencies (SCANS) of Job Applicants as Reported by Human Resource Personnel Starla Lynn

Green-Ivey,2002 Purpose of study The primary purpose of this study was to investigate the perceptions of human resource personnel with respect to workplace competencies possessed by job applicants and the factors employed when evaluating these skills in job applicants This information should help educators and trainers better prepare applicants for the transition between school to work Methodology Data for the study were collected during face to face meetings with human resource personnel from 25 employers in mid Missouri Adapted from the SCANS report the survey included five competency domains resources information interpersonal skills systems and technology Findings Job applicants at various educational skill levels possess different levels of workplace competencies Human resource personnel commented that they were having difficulty finding qualified applicants because fewer qualified applicants apply and their soft skills need to be higher Conclusions To the extent that data are valid and reliable a fewer employers are hiring job applicants who are at the less than GED educational skill level b as the educational skill level of a job applicant increases so does the level of workplace competencies possessed and the hiring salary c the assessment method does not differ among educational skill levels however the type of information addressed becomes more technical and specific d companies utilize a combination of assessment methods to increase the validity of the screening process and e employers believe in the importance of teaching soft skills to job applicants and must actively encourage educational administrators to develop curriculums that accentuate soft skills

Jr.,Harold F. O'Neil,2014-03-05 Current economic difficulties and the challenge of competing in the world market have necessitated a rethinking of American approaches to the utilization of people in organizations Management now recognizes a need to have workers take on more responsibility at the points of production of sale and of service rendered if the United States is to compete in rapidly changing world markets This development means that much more is expected of even entry level members of the American workforce Thus even more is expected of our high schools and colleges to provide this type of workforce The need of American management for workers with greater skills and who can take on greater responsibility has spawned many commissions task forces and studies All of them have contributed to the vast evidence documenting the need for a more highly skilled workforce These studies are summarized and synthesized in this book However what remains largely undone is the development of methods to assess the necessary skills that have been identified A major portion of this book deals with assessment issues Workforce Readiness Competencies and Assessment explores the state of the art in the specification of competencies skills and their assessment for students entering the world of work from both high school and college Both individual and team competencies are examined via data that has been reported and collected in various settings schools laboratories and industrial facilities Differentiating Instruction With Style Gayle H.
