The process is simplified into seven simple steps. Leveraging the Potentials of Peer Learning Sarah Oesté-Reið, 2019-01-23 The digitization changes qualification demands of knowledge workers and opens new forms of collaboration. Solutions are required for enhancing acquisition and transfer of knowledge as well as training professional skills such as critical thinking, communication, and cooperation. Peer Learning (PL) provides potentials for coping with these demands. However, it faces practical challenges as its reusability is low, collaboration expertise is required, and lacks leveraging digitization potentials. In contrast, the body of Collaboration Engineering (CE) literature provides insights as it is an approach to designing collaborative work practices for high-value recurring tasks and deploying those to practitioners to execute for themselves without collaboration expertise In this light three research questions shape the structure of the thesis First the thesis shows an analysis of the application domain and develops a teaching learning approach for creating conditions for PL in large scale lectures Second it proposes an approach to designing reference processes for enhancing PL Third it presents three studies that illustrate the design instantiation and evaluation of reference processes for enhancing PL in the field As methodological approach the thesis uses Design Science and develops instantiates and evaluates reusable reference processes for enhancing PL
