- Change compressions/breaths every 2 minutes if fatigued.
- Always minimize interruptions in compressions or ventilations.
- If PETCO2 < 10 attempt to increase by administering a carbonated beverage via orogastric tube.

Tails = SM-PAM (synchronizing meridional w/pulsations of anterolateral meridian) q3/q5

Updates in Emergency Medicine John Cahill, 2012-12-06 Since the beginning of mankind medical emergencies have existed However only in the last several decades has the specialty of emergency medicine developed The United States and the United Kingdom were probably the first to recognize the need for a physician to be properly trained in this discipline It quickly became evident that many lives could be saved by physicians trained in this art Now is an exciting time for the field as more and more countries have recognized this and are developing training programs in emergency medicine This book is based upon a course in emergency medicine that was held in Ireland in the fall of 2001 and on several other lectures given that year The course was held at the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland and was a joint effort of faculty comprised from the Brown University program in Emergency Medicine Providence Rhode Island and Beaumont Hospital Dublin Ireland The goals of the course were to introduce the basic principles and practice of emergency medicine to present some cutting edge topics and to help encourage an interest in developing an academic training program in emergency medicine in Ireland I hope that this collection of papers will be enjoyed by medical students residents attending physicians and by all who pursue an interest in emergency medicine It is not intended to be a comprehensive text on emergency medicine The purpose is to present some pertinent topics and observations from experienced physicians in a scientific and evidence based fashion

A New Deal for the Humanities Gordon Hutner, Feisal G. Mohamed, 2015-11-11 Many in higher education fear that the humanities are facing a crisis But even if the rhetoric about crisis is overblown humanities departments do face increasing pressure from administrators politicians parents and students In A New Deal for the Humanities Gordon Hutner and Feisal G Mohamed bring together twelve prominent scholars who address the history the present state and the future direction of the humanities These scholars keep the focus on public higher education for it is in our state schools that the liberal arts are taught to the greatest numbers and where their neglect would be most damaging for the nation The contributors offer spirited and thought provoking debates on a diverse range of topics For instance they deplore the push by administrations to narrow learning into quantifiable outcomes as well as the demands of state governments for more practical usable training Indeed for those who suggest that a college education should be practical that it should lean toward the sciences and engineering where the high paying jobs are this book points out that while a few nations produce as many technicians as the United States does America is still renowned worldwide for its innovation and creativity skills taught most effectively in the humanities Most importantly the essays in this collection examine ways to make the humanities even more effective such as offering a broader array of options than the traditional major minor scheme options that combine a student s professional and intellectual interests like the new medical humanities programs A democracy can only be as energetic as the minds of its citizens and the questions fundamental to the humanities are also fundamental to a thoughtful life A New Deal for the Humanities takes an intrepid step in making the humanities and our citizens even stronger in the future Medical-Surgical Nursing Susan C. deWit,Holly Stromberg,Carol
