

INTRODUCTION

Plumbing is essential to everyday life, so it is easy to forget to follow safe practices. However, if you remember to follow safety procedures, you can avoid illness and injury from the job.

HAZARDS

There are several hazards that are associated with plumbing. For example:

- Illness: Working with raw sewage or in areas with rodents can cause viruses and infections
- Muscle Strain: Lifting heavy objects and getting into awkward positions
- Slips, Trips, and Falls: Wet surfaces make it hazardous to walk around
- Risk of eye or skin injuries from chemicals or flying objects
- Risk of fire from welding
- Risk of electrocution from using power tools around wet surfaces

PREPARATION

- Read the Safety Data Sheet (SDS) for any chemical you may use for plumbing.
- Gather together your Personal Protective Equipment (PPE). Consider:
 - Goggles to protect your eyes from splashes or flying debris
 - Heat protective gloves to protect your hands from hot equipment or pipes
 - Protective shoes with non-slip soles
- Be sure the working area is free from clutter and debris so you can stay focused on your work and avoid tripping or slipping on unnecessary items.
- Check the air quality before you begin work in a confined space.
 - If the air quality is not good, be sure to have a respirator or some type of ventilation in order to stay safe.
- Turn off water or gasoline pipes if needed.
- Know the emergency numbers, such as the numbers of the utility companies, in case you need them to quickly shut things off.
