RUBRIC POEM ON VOICETHREAD PROJECT

FLUENCY:

	Expression & Fluency	Phrasing	Smoothness	Pace
4	You read with enthusiasm and expression throughout the poem.	You read in phrases and pause at punctuation marks.	You read fairly smoothly without any awkward pauses.	You consistently read at a conversational pace—it is easy to understand you throughout the reading.
3	You use a “talking voice” for most of the poem. You rarely (2-3 times) use “robot voice”.	You read in phrases for most of the poem. You may have “run over” a punctuation mark or pause in the middle of a sentence a few times.	There are a few breaks because you have difficulty with a few words or phrases.	You read at an uneven rate—sometimes fast and sometimes slow.
2	You focus on pronouncing the words. You are beginning to use a “talking voice” but can sound like “robot voice”.	You often read in 2-3 word phrases, making it feel choppy. You do not pause at end of sentences and punctuation marks.	There are several “rough spots” with long pauses. You need to repeat yourself often.	You read somewhat slowly.
1	You read words as if you just want to get them out. You tend to read in a quiet voice. It doesn’t sound close to “talking voice.”	You read word by word with many pauses.	There are awkward, long pauses, repeats, sound-outs, and false starts.	You read slowly and with difficulty.

Over the course of three sections, Routman provides numerous "Take Action" ideas for implementing authentic and responsive teaching, assessing, and learning. This book poses a key question: How do we rise to the challenge of providing an engaging, excellent, equitable education for all learners, including those from high-poverty and underserved schools? Teaching for Engagement Many high-performing schools are characterized by a thriving school culture built on a network of authentic communication. Teachers can strengthen classroom engagement by building a trusting and welcoming environment where all students can have a safe and collaborative space to grow and develop. Pursuing Excellence Routman identifies 10 key factors that describe an excellent teacher, ranging from intellectual curiosity to creativity, and explains how carrying yourself as a role model contributes to an inclusive, caring, empathic, and fair classroom. She also stresses the importance for school leaders to make job-embedded professional development a top priority. Dismantling Unequal Education The huge gap in the quality of education in high- vs. low-income communities is the civil rights issue of the 21st century, according to Routman. She spells out specific actions educators can take to create more equitable schools and classrooms, such as diversifying texts used in curriculums and ensuring all students have access to opportunities to discuss, reflect, and engage with important ideas. From the author: I wrote Literacy Essentials because I saw a need to simplify teaching, raise expectations, and make expert teaching possible for all of us. I saw a need to emphasize how a school culture of kindness, trust, respect, and curiosity is essential to any lasting achievement. I saw a need to demonstrate and discuss how and why the beliefs, actions, and knowledge we hold determine the potential for many of our students. Equal opportunity to learn depends on a culture of engagement and equity, which underlies a relentless pursuit of excellence.
