About Your PleurX™ Catheter

This information will help you know what to expect during the procedure to place your PleurX drainage catheter at Memorial Sloan Kettering (MSK). It will also help you learn how to care for your PleurX catheter at home.

About Your Pleural Space

Your lungs are surrounded by 2 layers of tissue called the pleura. The space between the layers is called the pleural space (see Figure 1).

It's normal to have some fluid in your pleural space. This fluid helps your lungs move smoothly when you breathe. Sometimes, too much fluid builds up in the pleural space around one or both of your lungs. This makes it hard for your lungs to expand all the way and can make you feel short of breath.
