

Reflection and Planning

This section supports early learning and child care educators in their reflection and planning processes. The reflection and planning guide assumes a strong, capable image of the child and family, described in the previous documents, The Image of the Child: A Mighty Learner and Citizen and A Practice of Relationships: Your Role as an Early Learning and Child Care Educator. Within the Alberta curriculum framework, content begins with the experiences of children and engages educators as co-learners, co-researchers and co-imagers of possibilities. In these roles, educators are encouraged to make use of a co-inquiry process¹ and emergent curriculum² planning in ways that notice and name what children are doing in their play, learning and development; reflect and interpret using the curriculum goals and children's dispositions to learn; and then, co-imagine possibilities with children, families and colleagues for further exploration and play. The physical and responsive environment—including time, space, materials, and participation—changes to reflect how educators make meaning of the curriculum that children are already engaged in through this emergent and reflective process.

Cultural Reflection in Early Childhood Education Rachael S. Burke,Judith Duncan,2014-10-30 Taking the body as a locus for discussion Rachael S Burke and Judith Duncan argue not only that implicit cultural practices shape most of the interactions taking place in early childhood curricula and pedagogy but that many of these practices often go unnoticed or unrecognized as being pedagogy Current scholars inspired by Foucault acknowledge that the body is socially and culturally produced and historically situated it is simultaneously a part of nature and society as well as a representation of the way that nature and society can be conceived Every natural symbol originating from the body contains and conveys a social meaning and every culture selects its own meaning from the myriad of potential body symbolisms Bodies as Sites of Cultural Reflection in Early Childhood Education uses empirical examples from qualitative fieldwork conducted in New Zealand and

Japan to explore these theories and discuss the ways in which children's bodies represent a central focus in teachers' pedagogical discussions and create contexts for the embodiment of children's experiences in the early years Effective Leadership And Management In The Early Years Moyles, Janet, 2006-11-01 This book covers key topics such as diversity bereavement and effective nutrition for children It offers a unique collection from leading international education specialists in the field Peace Research Abstracts Journal ,2006 Education Policy in England 2010-2024 Rebecca Morris, Thomas Perry, 2025-08-28 This text presents an informative overview of Conservative led education policy over the last 14 years The book provides a broad and detailed picture of the developing education landscape in England during this period highlighting the transformational and sometimes radical reforms that the country has seen Crucially the book draws together contributions from over 40 esteemed education researchers working in the UK The chapters showcase work from a range of experienced and early career researchers ensuring original thought provoking and evidence informed perspectives as we examine the impact of recent policy and explore how it might develop into the future Key thematic areas covered include Restructuring and governing the system Teaching policy practice and professionalism Confronting the challenges of inclusion and inequality Steering and transforming the curriculum and assessment This timely collection will interest students at all levels researchers education professionals and policymakers It sheds important light on this tumultuous era for education policy and will inform those interested in this area for years to come
