

Laboratory Activity #1 — Student Laboratory Packet

Relationships and Biodiversity*A Laboratory Activity for the Living EnvironmentIntroduction

Botana curus is a valuable plant because it produces Curol, a compound used for treating certain kinds of cancer. Curol cannot be produced in the laboratory. Botana curus grows very slowly and is on the endangered species list, so its ability to provide Curol in large quantities is limited.

Species that are more closely related to Botana curus are more likely to produce the important substance Curol. Three similar plant species that are plentiful (X, Y, and Z) may be related to Botana curus. You will work as a researcher to:

- gather structural and molecular evidence to determine which plant species is most closely related to the hypothetical species, Botana curus
- use this evidence to decide which plant species is most likely to serve as a source of the important substance Curol

Safety

- You will need to wear goggles while conducting Tests 4 and 5.
- Do not eat or drink anything in the laboratory while doing this laboratory activity.

Important Note: Record all of your data and answers on these laboratory sheets. You will need to keep them for review before the Regents Examination. Later, you will need to transfer your answers to a separate Student Answer Packet. Your teacher will use the packet in grading your work, and the school will retain it as evidence of your completion of the laboratory requirement for the Living Environment Regents Examination.

Structural Evidence for Relationships

Perform the following tests and record your observations in Table 1 on page 8 of this packet. Use a hand lens or microscope as needed.

Test 1—Structural Characteristics of Plants

- Do not remove the plant samples from the plastic bags/cards.
- Compare the structural characteristics of the plant samples. Record your observations in Table 1 (see page 8).

Test 2—Structural Characteristics of Seeds

- Do not remove the seed samples from the plastic bags/cards.
- Compare the structural characteristics of the seed samples. Record your observations in Table 1.

Metagenomics Muniyandi Nagarajan, 2024-11-05 Metagenomics Perspectives Methods and Applications second edition provides thorough coverage of the growing field of metagenomics A diverse range of chapters from international experts offer an introduction to the field and examine methods for metagenomic analysis of microbiota metagenomic computational tools and recent metagenomic studies in various environments and clinical settings The emphasis on application makes this text particularly useful for applied researchers practitioners clinicians and students seeking to employ metagenomic approaches to advance knowledge in the biomedical and life sciences Case study based application chapters include topics ranging from metagenome tools metagenomics in oral disease and health metagenomic insights into the human gut microbiome and metabolic syndromes and more This new edition has been fully updated to address the rapid growth and development of metagenomics applications featuring expert discussion of recent developments and fresh case studies Newly added chapters instruct in methods and implications of metagenomics in areas of growing focus such as microbiome research clinical diagnosis metagenomic epidemiology and plant microbe interaction Data analysis is explained in simple terms for effective use of computational tools software and sequencing pipelines Features a diverse range of chapters from international experts Highlights current state of the art and recent advances in the field with current perspectives and case studies Includes methods techniques and various computational software tools and pipelines currently used in metagenomic studies Provokes new thought and motivations for continued study with next steps in research discussed at the end of each chapter

The Carbon Fix Stephanie Paladino, Shirley J Fiske, 2016-11-18 Given the growing urgency to develop global responses to a changing climate The Carbon Fix examines the social and equity dimensions of putting the world's forests and necessarily the rural people who manage and depend on them at the center of climate policy efforts such as REDD intended to slow global warming The book assesses the implications of international policy approaches that focus on forests as carbon and especially forest carbon offsets for rights justice and climate governance Contributions from leading anthropologists and geographers analyze a growing trend towards market principles and financialization of nature in environmental governance placing it into conceptual critical and historical context The book then challenges perceptions of forest carbon initiatives through in depth field based case studies assessing projects policies and procedures at various scales from informed consent to international carbon auditing While providing a mixed assessment of the potential for forest carbon initiatives to balance carbon with social goals the authors present compelling evidence for the complexities of the carbon offset enterprise fraught with competing interests and interpretations at multiple scales and having unanticipated and often deleterious effects on the resources and rights of the world's poorest peoples especially indigenous and rural peoples The Carbon Fix provides nuanced insights into political economic and ethical issues associated with climate change policy Its case approach and fresh perspective are critical to environmental professionals development planners and project managers and to students in upper level undergraduate and graduate courses in environmental anthropology and geography environmental and policy studies international development and indigenous studies Let's Review Biology-The Living Environment G.
