Jones,2010-12-28 In this completely revised and updated edition including eight new chapters Jeffrey Jones charts the evolution and maturation of political entertainment television by examining The Daily Show with Jon Stewart The Colbert Report Politically Incorrect Real Time with Bill Maher and Michael Moore s TV Nation and The Awful Truth This volume investigates how and why these shows have been central locations for the critique of political and economic power and an important resource for citizens during numerous political crises In an age of Truthiness fake news and humorous political talk have proven themselves viable forms of alternative reporting and critical means for ascertaining truth and in the process questioning the legitimacy of news media s role as the primary mediator of political life The book also addresses the persistent claims that these programs have cynical effects and create misinformed young citizens demonstrating instead how such programming provides for an informed active and meaningful citizenship The new edition takes account of the many changes that have occurred in television and political culture since Entertaining Politics initial release NATO's Lessons in Crisis Heidi Hardt,2018 In crisis management operations strategic errors can cost lives Some international organizations IOs learn from these failures whereas others tend to repeat them Given that they have high rates of turnover how is it possible that any IO retains knowledge about the past

This book introduces an argument for how and why IOs develop institutional memory from their efforts to manage crises. Findings indicate that the design of an IO's learning infrastructure (e.g., lessons learned offices and databases) can inadvertently disincentivize IO elites from using it to share knowledge about strategic errors. Elites (high level officials) in IOs perceive reporting to be a risky endeavour. In response, they develop institutional memory by creating and using informal processes including transnational interpersonal networks, private documentation and conversations during crisis management exercises. The result is an institutional memory that is highly dependent on only a handful of individuals. The book draws on the author's interviews and a survey experiment with 120 NATO elites across four countries. Cases of NATO crisis management in Afghanistan, Libya and Ukraine further illustrate the development of institutional memory. Findings challenge existing research on organizational learning by suggesting that formal learning processes alone are insufficient for ensuring that learning happens. The book also offers recommendations to policymakers for strengthening the learning capacity of IOs.

Dear Palestine Shay Hazkani, 2021-04-13 In 1948 a war broke out that would result in Israeli independence and the erasure of Arab Palestine. Over twenty months thousands of Jews and Arabs came from all over the world to join those already on the ground to fight in the ranks of the Israel Defense Forces and the Arab Liberation Army. With this book the young men and women who made up these armies come to life through their letters home writing about everything from daily life to nationalism, colonialism, race and the character of their enemies. Shay Hazkani offers a new history of the 1948 War through these letters focusing on the people caught up in the conflict and its transnational reverberations. Dear Palestine also examines how the architects of the conflict worked to influence and indoctrinate key ideologies in these ordinary soldiers by examining battle orders, pamphlets, army magazines and radio broadcasts. Through two narratives, the official and unofficial, the propaganda and the personal letters, Dear Palestine reveals the fissures between sanctioned nationalism and individual identity. This book reminds us that everyday people's fear, bravery, arrogance, cruelty, lies and exaggerations are as important in history as the preoccupations of the elites. Police Chief Daniel S.
