

New Discoveries about Vedic Sarasvatī

An aerial photograph of a river delta, likely the Ghaghara river in India. The river flows from the top left towards the bottom right, where it branches out into a complex network of channels and distributaries. A prominent, large, roughly circular island is situated in the lower right portion of the frame, surrounded by the river's waters. The surrounding landscape is a mix of light-colored, possibly sandy or silty, terrain and darker, more vegetated areas. The overall scene depicts a significant natural waterway and its associated landforms.
