Nelson,2000-01-30 There has been a dramatic resurgence of interest in early African American writing Since the accidental rediscovery and republication of Harriet Wilson s Our Nig in 1983 the works of dozens of 19th and early 20th century black writers have been recovered and reprinted There is now a significant revival of interest in the Harlem Renaissance of the 1920s and in the last decade alone several major assessments of 18th and 19th century African American literature have been published Early African American literature builds on a strong oral tradition of songs folktales and sermons Slave narratives began to appear during the late 18th and early 19th century and later writers began to engage a variety of themes in diverse genres A central objective of this reference book is to provide a wide ranging introduction to the first 200 years of African American literature Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 78 black writers active between 1745 and 1945 Among these writers are essayists novelists short story writers poets playwrights and autobiographers Each entry is written by an expert contributor and provides a biography a discussion of major works and themes an overview of the author s critical reception and primary and secondary bibliographies The volume concludes with a selected general bibliography

discursive contingencies that enabled this tradition McLaughlin illuminates new connections between towering thinkers among them Cotton Mather John Adams Benjamin Rush Frederick Douglass William Lloyd Garrison Harriet Beecher Stowe Oliver Wendell Holmes Sr William James and Zora Neale Hurston Following these lines of influence and debate emphasis is placed on the incisive care such figures brought to bear on phobia s etymological development as a locus of psychological inquiry

History and Memory in African-American Culture Genevieve Fabre Professor of American Literature University of Paris, Robert O'Meally Professor of English and African-American Studies Columbia University, 1994-10-29 As Nathan Huggins once stated altering American history to account fully for the nation s black voices would change the tone and meaning the frame and the substance of the entire story Rather than a sort of Pilgrim s Progress tale of bold ascent and triumph American history with the black parts told in full would be transmuted into an existential tragedy closer Huggins said to Sartre s No Exit than to the vision of life in Bunyan The relation between memory and history has received increasing attention both from historians and from literary critics In this volume a group of leading scholars has come together to examine the role of historical consciousness and imagination in African American culture The result is a complex picture of the dynamic ways in which African American historical identity constantly invents and transmits itself in literature art oral documents and performances Each of the scholars represented has chosen a different site of memory from a variety of historical and geographical points and from different ideological theoretical and artistic perspectives Yet the book is unified by a common concern with the construction of an emerging African American cultural memory The renowned group of contributors including Hazel Carby Werner Sollors Veve Clark Catherine Clinton and Nellie McKay among others consists of participants of the five year series of conferences at the DuBois Institute at Harvard University from which this collection originated Conducted under the leadership of Genevieve Fabre Melvin Dixon and the late Nathan Huggins the conferences and as a result this book represent something of a cultural moment themselves and scholars and students of American and African American literature and history will be richer as a result

History and Memory in African-American Culture Geneviève Fabre, Robert G. O'Meally, 1994 The relation between history and memory has become an object of increasing attention among historians and literary critics Through a team of leading scholars this volume offers a complex picture of the dynamic ways in which an African American historical identity constantly invents and transmits itself in books art performance and oral documents

Love's Virtues Mike W. Martin, 1996 This book brings together a sensitive understanding of love and an unusually careful even painstaking analysis of the enormous but often neglected role of morality and the virtues in love Martin's discussions of such virtues as caring courage fidelity and honesty are superb the examples well chosen the argument personal but nevertheless rigorous the prose accessible and enjoyable to read

From Modernist Entombment to Postmodernist Exhumation Lisa K. Perdigao, 2016-04-22 How fictional representations of dead bodies develop over the twentieth century is the central concern of Lisa K Perdigao's study of American writers Arguing that the crisis of bodily representation can be traced in the move from modernist entombment to postmodernist exhumation Perdigao considers how works by writers from F Scott Fitzgerald William Faulkner Willa Cather and Richard Wright to Jody Shields Toni Morrison Octavia Butler and Jeffrey Eugenides reflect changing attitudes about dying death and mourning For example while modernist writers direct their plots toward a transformation of the dead body by way of metaphor postmodernist writers exhume the transformed body reasserting its materiality Rather than viewing these tropes in oppositional terms Perdigao examines the implications for narrative of the authors' apparently contradictory attempts to recover meaning at the site of loss She argues that entombment and exhumation are complementary drives that speak to the tension between the desire to bury the dead and the need to remember indicating shifts in critical discussions about the body and about the function of aesthetics in relation to materialized violence and loss

Who Can Speak? Judith Roof, Robyn Wiegman, 1995 For women for lesbians and gays for African Americans for Asians Native Americans or any other self identified and identifying group who can speak Who has the authority to speak for these groups Is there genuinely such a thing as objectivity or can only members of these groups speak finally for themselves And who has the authority to decide who has the authority This collection examines how theory and criticism are complicated by multiple perspectives in an increasingly multicultural society and faces head on the difficult question of what qualifies a critic to speak from or about a particular position In different formats and from different perspectives from various disciplines the contributors to this volume analytically and innovatively work together to define the problems and capture the contradictions and tensions inherent in the issues of authority epistemology and discourse

Encyclopedia of Feminist Literature Kathy J. Whitson, 2004-12-30 Many women writers have secured a solid place in the literary canon while others have remained marginalized This reference includes alphabetically arranged entries on roughly 70 women writers whose works are widely read in English and on some 20 related topics While some of the writers profiled are widely known others have not yet received as much attention And while most of the writers are from England and America the volume also profiles Chilean Brazilian Indian South African Australian French and German authors The writers selected are feminist in that their works have challenged traditional gender roles explored female oppression or critiqued patriarchal social structures In addition to providing biographical information the entries include interpretative summaries of major works Each author entry includes biographical information an extensive summary treatment of at least one of her works an list of her other major works cross references to related entries and a list of works for further reading What distinguishes this encyclopedia from the many other volumes addressing feminist literature or literature by women is the interpretative summary in each entry The volume closes with a list of works cited Entries are clearly written and are accessible to high school students and undergraduates

The Erotics of Talk Carla Kaplan, 1996 African American women's texts she demonstrates often dramatize their distrust of their readers their lack of faith in the cultural conversation through strategies of self silencing and self talk At the same time she argues the homoerotics of women's writing has too often gone unremarked Not only does longing for an ideal listener draw women's texts into a romance with the reader but there is an erotic excess which is part of feminist critical recuperation itself
