Valenzuela Instructor English 101 17 September 2012 Discovering an Identity Self-deliberation arises quicker during the stresses of life. Breaking forth through these stresses comes from the realization that freedom is obtained through the willingness to welcome a new world, leaving behind the past. Mrs. Mallard comes in contact with the experience itself, as she receives news of her husband's death, Brently Mallard, in an accident. Grieving this pain she encloses herself within the room of her home, knowing no one will follow behind her.

Left alone, she embarks on a reflection of her past, realizing the breakage that lies behind her and willingly steps forth to accept the future that lies ahead, foreshadowing the brightness of the identity she longs to discover. In the short story, The Story of An Hour by Kate Chopin, the symbolism of the window's images support the idea that personal freedom constructs ultimate peace with an identity. Through the use of symbolism, the window was seen to be an image of the possibilities beyond the life she had as a sense of freedom conveyed the very willpower that allowed for her to find an identity.

Alone the window has a significance of presenting possibilities to the speaker. "There stood, facing the window, a comfortable, roomy armchair" (299). Noticing the emphasis of the window being in front of the chair shows a possible escape from the truth the speaker just witnessed. Being invited by a comfortable chair to look through the window only emphasizes more to the point that this sort of reflection is needed, and that through this escape she will feel the freedom at once when she feels alone with herself to wonder.

Beyond the window reveals a preview of the life that would complete the image of the life that Mrs. Mallard seeks to obtain. "She could see in the open square before her house the tops of the trees that were aquiver with the new spring life. The delicious breath of rain was in the air" (299). As Mrs. Mallard spies through the window - "the open square" - she witnesses the liveliness of spring. Analyzing the context of spring, the idea of rebirth drives through the mind of the speaker, however the connotation of "spring" can be analyzed much further.

Spring can be seen as the liveliness of youth such as the possibilities of exploring sexual freedom as she experiences the rebirth after the loss of her husband. Rain also holds connotations that point towards the ideas of rebirth; through this, Mrs. Mallard smelling the scents of rain reveals a sort of spiritual cleansing, as she reacts towards the death of her husband and reflecting upon it. Because the window presents these images of, symbolically, reliving life, Mrs.

Mallard experiences and sees the possibilities that face her ahead of time. This experience for the speaker then suddenly becomes more than just a reflection of the recent news, but a presentation - done by the window - for her to vi

Reading for Liberalism Stephen J. Mexal, 2020-04-01 Founded in 1868 the Overland Monthly was a San Francisco based literary magazine whose mix of humor pathos and romantic nostalgia for a lost frontier was an immediate sensation on the East Coast Due in part to a regional desire to attract settlers and financial investment the essays and short fiction published in the Overland Monthly often portrayed the American West as a civilized evolution of and not a savage regression from eastern bourgeois modernity and democracy Stories about the American West have for centuries been integral to the way we imagine freedom the individual and the possibility for alternate political realities Reading for Liberalism examines the shifting literary and narrative construction of liberal selfhood in California in the late nineteenth century through case studies of a number of western American writers who wrote for the Overland Monthly including Noah Brooks Ina Coolbrith Bret Harte Jack London John Muir and Frank Norris among others Reading for Liberalism argues that Harte the magazine s founding editor and the other members of the Overland group critiqued and reimagined the often invisible fabric of American freedom Reading for Liberalism uncovers and examines in the text of the Overland Monthly the relationship between wilderness literature race and the production of individual freedom in late nineteenth century

Neil Scott, 2002 The Classic Short Story, 1870-1925 Florence Goyet, 2014-01-13 The ability to construct a nuanced narrative or complex character in the constrained form of the short story has sometimes been seen as the ultimate test of an author's creativity. Yet during the time when the short story was at its most popular, the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, even the greatest writers followed strict generic conventions that were far from subtle. This expanded and updated translation of Florence Goyet's influential La Nouvelle 1870-1925: Description d'un genre son apogée Paris 1993 is the only study to focus exclusively on this classic period across different continents. Ranging through French, English, Italian, Russian, and Japanese writing, particularly the stories of Guy de Maupassant, Henry James, Giovanni Verga, Anton Chekhov, and Akutagawa Ryunosuke, Goyet shows that these authors were able to create brilliant and successful short stories using the very simple tools of brevity of that period. In this challenging and far reaching study Goyet looks at classic short stories in the context in which they were read at the time cheap newspapers and higher end periodicals She demonstrates that despite the apparent intention of these stories to question bourgeois ideals they mostly affirmed the prejudices of their readers In doing so her book forces us to re think our preconceptions about this forgotten genre Teaching the Short Story A.
