Spring fed creeks Old stone houses Cedar brakes and bleached limestone The Hill Country holds powerful sway over the imagination of Texans So many of us dream of having our own little place in the limestone hills The Hill Country feels just like home even if you ve never lived there This beautifully written book explores what the Hill Country has meant as a homeplace to the author his family and longtime residents of the area as well as to newcomers David Syring listens to the stories that his aunts uncles and cousins tell about life in the Hill Country and grapples with their meaning for his own search for a place to belong He also collects short stories focused around Honey Creek Church to consider how places become containers for memory And he draws upon several years of living in Fredericksburg to talk about the problems and opportunities created by heritage tourism and the development of the town as a home for German Americans These interconnected stories illuminate what it means to belong to a place and why the Texas Hill Country has become the spiritual if not actual home of many people The Oxford Critical and Cultural History of Modernist Magazines Peter

Brooker, Andrew Thacker, 2009-03-26 The first of three volumes charting the history of the Modernist Magazine in Britain North America and Europe this collection offers the first comprehensive study of the wide and varied range of little magazines which were so instrumental in introducing the new writing and ideas that came to constitute literary and artistic modernism in the UK and Ireland In thirty seven chapters covering over eighty magazines expert contributors investigate the inner dynamics and economic and intellectual conditions that governed the life of these fugitive but vibrant publications We learn of the role of editors and sponsors the relation of the arts to contemporary philosophy and politics the effects of war and economic depression and of the survival in hard times of radical ideas and a belief in innovation The chapters are arranged according to historical themes with accompanying contextual introductions and include studies of the New Age Blast the Egoist and the Criterion New Writing New Verse and Scrutiny as well as of lesser known magazines such as the Evergreen Coterie the Bermondsey Book the Mask Welsh Review the Modern Scot and the Bell To return to the pages of these magazines returns us a world where the material constraints of costs and anxieties over censorship and declining readerships ran alongside the excitement of a new poem or manifesto This collection therefore confirms the value of magazine culture to the field of modernist studies it provides a rich and hitherto under examined resource which both brings to light the debate and dialogue out of which modernism evolved and helps us recover the vitality and potential of that earlier discussion
