

The Mystery of Macy's Money

There are about nine million people in New York City, thought Detective Hanlon. All I have to do is find out who took $250,000 from the safe at Macy's Department Store.

There was a broken window in the office. The safe door was open. Detective Hanlon looked out the window. Outside on the ground, there were shards of glass. The carpet by the window was clean.

Just then, Charles Taylor, an assistant manager, walked in. Detective Hanlon noticed bandages on Taylor's hands. Taylor pulled the sleeve of his jacket over the bandages.

"I am sorry I wasn't here to meet you, detective. I don't know how this could have happened!" exclaimed Taylor.

"Do you always have this much money in the safe?" asked Hanlon.

"No, we were going to give bonuses to some of our employees," answered Taylor.

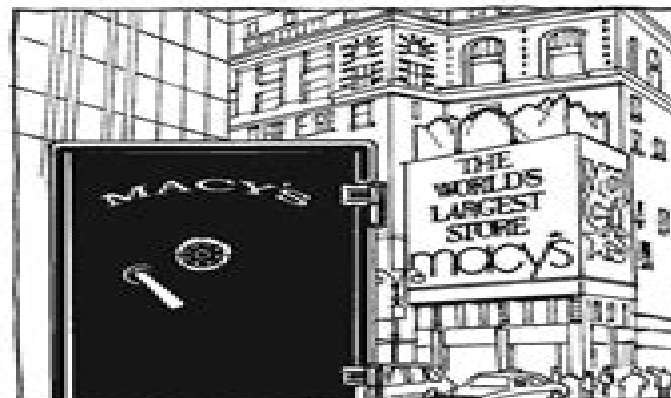

"Were you going to get a bonus, Mr. Taylor?" asked Hanlon.

"No, only the sales staff was going to get bonuses. I didn't think that was very fair. But then, my opinion doesn't matter much around here," replied Taylor.

"Who has the combination to the safe?" asked Hanlon.

"Only my supervisor, Harold Stevens, and I," answered Taylor. "Mr. Stevens just left for a vacation in Hawaii."

"I think that you will be going away for a while too, Mr. Taylor, but not to Hawaii," said Hanlon.

Think about it...

Hanlon knows who took the money. Do you?

heart of the second section of this book entail myths of historical and cultural dislocation. They appear as breaks in time that call for reconstruction and redefinition, a chief instance being the trauma of slavery with its deep geographical and cultural dislocations. However, the crises that have deprived entire communities of their homeland and their identity are followed by moments of remembrance, reconciliation, and rebuilding. As the term postcolonial suggests, the formerly colonized people seek to revisit and re-investigate the impact of colonization before committing it to collective memory. In a more specifically literary section, texts are read as mythopoeia foregrounding the aesthetic and poetic issues in colonial and postcolonial poems and novels. The texts explored here study in different ways the process of mythologization through images of location and dislocation. The editors of this collection hope that readers worldwide will enjoy reading about the myths that have shaped and continue to shape postcolonial communities and nations.

Christian Foundations Kathleen R. Fischer, Thomas N. Hart, 1995. I found myself praying from Christian Foundations in new ways. Of course, like most academics, I had heard it all before.
