

Monkeyin' Around

Emma loved monkeys. She had a stuffed monkey she liked to sleep with at night. Whenever she was acting goofy, her father would tease her by saying that she was "monkeyin' around."

One day a bunch of kids were playing at recess. They were pretending to be different animals that they had learned about in class. Sasha wanted to be a zebra, Keelin wanted to be a lion and Emma wanted to be a baboon! As all the kids were discussing, Emma said that if they pretended to be baboons, they would really be monkeys because baboons are part of the monkey family. She said they could call their play time, "monkeyin' around." All the kids thought that was very clever.

The group began to think about what they'd learned as they played. The biggest kids were the male baboons, because they'd learned in class that males are twice as big as females. The baby baboons were called infants and were learning tricks from their mothers. There were also a few children that were lions and hyenas. The kids pretending to be baboons had to run away from the lions and hyenas. They were predators that wanted to eat the baboons for lunch! Monkeyin' around at recess was so much fun!

was published in 1984. This classic work, an essential resource for researchers, students, and professionals across the field of reading and literacy education, is now available once again in on-line and print-on-demand versions. Handbook of Reading Research, Volume II Rebecca Barr, Michael L. Kamil, Peter B. Mosenthal, P. David Pearson, 2016-11-18. A comprehensive overview of important contemporary issues in the field of reading research from the mid 1980s to mid 1990s, this well-received volume offers readers an examination of literacy through a variety of lenses, some permitting microscopic views and others panoramic views. A veritable who's who of specialists in the field, chapter authors cover current methodology as well as cumulative research-based knowledge. Because it deals with society and literacy, the first section provides the broadest possible view of literacy. The second section defines the range of activities culturally determined to be a part of the enterprise known as literacy. The third focuses on the processes that individuals engage in when they perform the act of reading. The fourth section visits the environment in which the knowledge that comprises literacy is passed on from one generation to the next. The last section, an epilogue to the whole enterprise of reading research, provides apt philosophical reflection.

Getting Parents on Board Alisa Hindin, Mary Mueller, 2016-02-05. Learn how to work more effectively with K-5 parents to increase student achievement in math and literacy. Research shows that parent involvement in schools leads to higher test scores and more engaged and enthusiastic students, but it isn't always easy for teachers to bridge the gap between the home and the school. This insightful book provides helpful research-based strategies to foster meaningful home-school partnerships and overcome the challenges teachers often face when trying to build relationships with parents. You'll learn new ways to promote parent involvement at home and school. Share specific math and literacy strategies with parents to reinforce children's learning. Plan and organize effective parent conferences that foster true dialogue about a child's education. Communicate with parents about what you're teaching and how you're teaching it so they can actively contribute to their child's learning at home. Develop family nights and workshops to get parents involved in learning at school. Recommend games, activities, and projects that parents can use at home to help their children practice math and literacy skills. And much more. Each chapter is full of practical tools such as Common Core-aligned strategies, useful resources for parents, and sample parent letters that you can use to increase and improve your home-school communications. Bonus: Additional parent letters on a variety of topics are available on our website www.routledge.com/9781138998698 to help you keep parents connected throughout the year. Applied Speech Technology Ann K. Syrdal, Raymond W. Bennett, Steven L. Greenspan, 1994-10-18.
