

The man in the attic

I was 10 years old when we moved into our new home. It was my grandparent's house and they gave it to us shortly before they passed away. The house was in a nice, quiet, and small neighborhood, where everyone knew everyone.

It was a two-story house with an attic and my room was right under it. The attic was rather empty, except for some boxes with things from when I was a little kid, things we were thinking of donating soon.

I used to have a lot of imaginary friends growing up, so when I started hearing murmurs from the ceiling and quiet "Hello's", I wasn't surprised at all. Rather quickly, I and my friend from the attic started talking every night while I was trying to fall asleep, and also quickly I learned his name to be Thomas, or Tommy, as he preferred to be called. He also made me promise to never tell my friends or parents about our friendship because they will get jealous and steal him from me.

Our companionship lasted almost 3 years when my mom heard me talking to me. She came into my room, looking rather distressed, wanting to know who I was speaking with. Forgetting about the promise I made years ago, I told her about my friend, and then she told my father. They called their friend, a police officer, and went to check the attic. There they found Thomas Hardy, a known child murderer that has been missing for 3 years. This killer, they said, used to sneak into houses with one or more small kids, befriend them, and then kill them in various ways, sometimes even eating parts of their flesh.

After that, they made sure that the attic was so secure, not even an imaginary friend could get in.

Scott, 2021-04-07 Classic Book Reviews and Timely Stories By Charles J Scott We all want to learn from perceptive intelligent and experienced individuals we admire so that we may live better lives ourselves Obviously we need good guidance and a positive influence on our thought processes for this purpose That's why we read great books from knowledgeable sources and listen to our role models Because he likes to reflect on the books he has read and incorporate the favorable impressions they have made on him into his daily activities author Charles Scott developed the habit of writing a series of book reviews and short stories to commemorate the occasion The reviews have provided him with a diving platform or a jumping off point of departure for making sound decisions and evaluating his actions Consequently the resulting stories represent a celebration of the life and times in which he has lived They are meant to celebrate humanity in an otherwise uncertain world throughout the ages Things I Only Did Once: Growing Up Stories Clark Malcolm Greene, Sassy Sharon Mills Draper, 2009 It's summer vacation and Sassy and her family are headed to Florida to visit Grammy for her birthday A huge celebration is planned at Grammy's beach house Sassy can't wait But the weatherman says a hurricane is swirling in the Atlantic and could be coming right toward Grammy's town So much for family fun everyone's too busy boarding up their houses and stocking up on food To make matters worse the local sea turtles lives are threatened there's no
