Needs Assessment Resources

In last month's newsletter, we focused on comprehensive longitudinal data systems (CLDS), as well as the goals and next steps of the system. From seven Promise Neighborhoods we drop in the process of conducting the needs assessment, this newsletter shares promising practices and a few resources to support the process of conducting a needs assessment. The first column of the Journal of Educational Research (JER) focused on gathering and using data for the needs assessment, and included presentations from Jennifer Cooney of the Office for Family and Home Support of the Office of Family, Community, and Juvenile Justice, and Jessica Jostel regarding needs assessment and data collection from stakeholders in the National Neighborhood Indicators Partnership as well as OII's website. As mentioned in the previous Neighborhood Watch, Francis Laine, author of the Building Communities That Work, provided a quick, annotated guide for the success of the needs assessment interviews with current experts, and interviews with one of the 11 Promise Neighborhoods grantees. Also check out page 1 of this newsletter for needs assessment promising practices from the Do-It-Yourself Promise Neighborhood and the Building Communities That Work.

Community of Practice in Massachusetts

The five Promise Neighborhoods planning grantees in Massachusetts, the Commonwealth Schools, Statewide Developmental Initiatives, and the United Way of Central Massachusetts, have been working closely together since the Promise planning grant was announced in September 2010. From their own under the direction of Michael Chertok, the State's Commissioner of Elementary and Secondary Education to align their efforts across the state, and that continued in recent by phone.

A study visit of three leading a community of practice and mentoring as a group with state resources is a recent announcement of a State early learning grant opportunity that will support the efforts to engage "lead research" facilities. The grant opportunity is limited only to the three PII planning grantees. On April 8, the three organizations will also participate in a Boston Promise Community to explore the important role of community in making positive change in urban neighborhoods.

Diploma: It's More Than A Piece Of Paper

A drop-out factory is a high school where as many as 40 percent of the students who start as freshmen walk out their senior year. Most drop-out factories are in large cities or rural areas where poverty rates are high. A majority of the Promise Neighborhoods include schools that have higher than average drop-out rates. In fact, according to a 2009 study conducted by America's Promise Alliance, the graduation rates vary significantly in cities that are home to more Promise Neighborhoods programs and the surrounding suburbs. The city-suburb difference is considerable in New York (28.4%), Boston (27%), Philadelphia (21.4%), Los Angeles (19.7%), and Atlanta (18.7%).

Last month, the Baltimore Education Research Consortium (BERC) released a report titled Declining Graduation.

Each Grade Early Warning Indicator for Baltimore City Schools: Data For Schools and Regions. Why should we pay attention to what a Baltimore study reveals? The Baltimore Public Schools had the second largest disparity in graduation rates at 40%.

BERC also identified each grade as being a critical intervention point where many drop out programs are geared towards eighth and ninth graders. America's Promise Alliance recently launched Declining Graduation which is a balance effort to end the high school drop-out crisis in the U.S.

More Promise Neighborhoods grantees have shown that how to address drop-out rates, one week towards ending the cycle of poverty in your neighborhood, much more in one month, and share your best practices. Each day drop-out impact more than just your own neighborhood.
