The COVID-19 Pandemic and Older Adults Edward Alan Miller, 2022-04-19 The COVID 19 pandemic has disrupted life globally through virus related mortality and morbidity and the social and economic impacts of actions taken to stop the virus spread It became evident early on during the pandemic that older adults are especially vulnerable to morbidity and mortality from COVID 19 and the adverse consequences of strategies taken to mitigate its effects While no more likely to become infected than younger populations the risk for hospitalization and death rises considerably with age Residents of long term care facilities have been among the hardest hit The pandemic has brought many facets of ageism to the fore Community stay at home messages lockdowns social distancing requirements and visitation restrictions contributed to a concomitant epidemic in social isolation and loneliness Economic and social impacts have been dramatic so too has been the disproportionate hardship experienced by members of racial and ethnic minority communities This book reports original empirical research and perspectives on the ramifications of the COVID 19 pandemic for the older adult population and draws lessons for policy research and practice Key issues pertaining to the impact of COVID 19 on older adults and their families caregivers and communities are highlighted Four main areas are examined personal experiences with COVID 19 long term care system impacts end of life care and technology and innovation The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Aging Social Policy

Rural Aging in 21st Century America Nina Glasgow, E. Helen Berry, 2012-12-14 This book investigates sociological demographic and geographic aspects of aging in rural and nonmetropolitan areas of the United States Population aging is one of the most important trends of the 20th and 21st centuries and it is occurring worldwide especially in more developed countries such as the United States Population aging is more rapid in rural than urban areas of the U S In 2010 15 percent of the nonmetropolitan compared to 12 percent of the metropolitan population were 65 years of age and older By definition rural communities have smaller sized populations and more limited healthcare transportation and other aging relevant services than do urban areas It is thus especially important to study and understand aging in rural environments Rural Aging in 21st Century America contributes evidence based policy relevant information on rural aging in the U S A primary objective of the book is to improve understanding of what makes the experience of rural aging different from aging in urban areas and to increase understanding of the aged change the nature of rural places The book addresses unique features of rural aging across economic racial ethnic migration and other structures and patterns all with a focus on debunking myths about rural aging and to emphasize opportunities and challenges that rural places and older people experience
