Remembering Babylon New Edition:

David Malouf Don Randall, 2013-07-19 Don Randall's comprehensive study situates Malouf within the field of contemporary international and postcolonial writing but without losing sight of the author's affiliation with Australian contexts. The book presents an original reading of Malouf finding the unity of his work in the continuity of his ethical concerns for Malouf human lives find their value in transformations specifically in instances of self overcoming that encounters with difference or otherness provoke. However the book is fully aware of and informed by the quite ample body of criticism on Malouf and thus provides readers with a broad based understanding of how Malouf's works have been received and assessed. It is an effective companion volume for studies in postcolonial or Australian literature for any study project in which Malouf figures prominently.

Horizon Barry Lopez, 2019-03-19 ONE OF THE BEST BOOKS OF THE YEAR THE NEW YORK TIMES NPR THE GUARDIAN From pole to pole and across decades of lived experience National Book Award winning author Barry Lopez delivers his most far ranging yet personal work to date. Horizon moves indelibly immersively through the author's travels to six regions of the world from Western Oregon to the High Arctic from the Galapagos to the Kenyan desert from Botany Bay in Australia to finally unforgettably the ice shelves of Antarctica. Along the way Lopez probes the long history of humanity's thirst for exploration including the prehistoric peoples who trekked across Skraeling Island in northern Canada the colonialists who plundered Central Africa an enlightenment era Englishman who sailed the Pacific a Native American emissary who found his way into isolationist Japan and today's ecotourists in the tropics. And always throughout his journeys to some of the hottest coldest and most desolate places on the globe Lopez searches for meaning and purpose in a broken world.

The River of History Peter Farrugia, 2005 The articles in this collection are dedicated to the proposition that human beings make history not just in the sense of being agents of change in the here and now but in the sense that we interpret appropriate and make use of the past for our own purposes in the future. Covering topics that range from teaching history to the concept of property rights and the discipline of history in the television age these essays will radically alter the notion of how we make history. It will show that we are never fully able to bend history to our will and that as we attempt to do so we are often shocked at the turns it takes despite our best efforts to shape it for future generations.

Contemporary Issues in Australian Literature David Callahan, 2014-02-25 The contemporary study of Australian literature ranges widely across issues of general cultural studies the politics of identity both ethnic and gendered and the position of Australia within wider postcolonial contexts. This volume intervenes in the most significant of issues in these areas from a variety of international perspectives.

Reinventing Allegory Theresa M. Kelley, 1997-07-24 First published in 1997 Reinventing Allegory asks how and why allegory has survived as a literary mode from the late Renaissance to the postmodern present. Three chapters on Romanticism including one on the painter J M W Turner present this era as the pivotal moment in allegory's modern survival. Other chapters describe larger historical and philosophical contexts including classical rhetoric.

and Spenser Milton and seventeenth century rhetoric Neoclassical distrust of allegory and recent theory and metafiction By using a series of key historical moments to define the special character of modern allegory this study offers an important framework for assessing allegory's role in contemporary literary culture Romantic Science Noah Heringman, 2012-02-01 Although romantic science may sound like a paradox much of the romance surrounding modern science the mad scientist the intuitive genius the utopian transformation of nature originated in the Romantic period Romantic Science traces the literary and cultural politics surrounding the formation of the modern scientific disciplines emerging from eighteenth century natural history Revealing how scientific concerns were literary concerns in the Romantic period the contributors uncover the vital role that new discoveries in earth plant and animal sciences played in the period's literary culture As Thomas Pennant put it in 1772 Natural History is at present the favourite science over all Europe and the progress which has been made in it will distinguish and characterise the eighteenth century in the annals of literature As they examine the social and literary ramifications of a particular branch or object of natural history the contributors to this volume historicize our present intellectual landscape by reimagining and redrawing the disciplinary boundaries between literature and science Contributors include Alan Bewell Rachel Crawford Noah Heringman Theresa M Kelley Amy Mae King Lydia H Liu Anne K Mellor Stuart Peterfreund and Catherine E Ross The African Diaspora and the Disciplines Tejumola Olaniyan, James Hoke Sweet, 2010 Focusing on the problems and conflicts of doing African diaspora research from various disciplinary perspectives these essays situate describe and reflect on the current practice of diaspora scholarship Tejumola Olaniyan James H Sweet and the international group of contributors assembled here seek to enlarge understanding of how the diaspora is conceived and explore possibilities for the future of its study With the aim of initiating interdisciplinary dialogue on the practice of African diaspora studies they emphasize learning from new perspectives that take advantage of intersections between disciplines Ultimately they advocate a fuller sense of what it means to study the African diaspora in a truly global way

CONFLUENCES Intercultural Journeying in Research and Teaching David Geoffrey Smith, 2020-03-01 In this book Canadian scholar David Geoffrey Smith reflects on over thirty years of research and teaching in the human sciences including education Written between 1986 and 2018 the essays are organized around four themes Hermeneutics and the Human Sciences The Poststructuralist Turn Globalization and Its Discontents East West Encounters and the Search for Wisdom As a historical guide through the defining discourses in the human sciences this volume could well serve as an introductory text for graduate students in education and other cognate disciplines like nursing recreation and cultural studies The writing can be described as a form of meditative praxis while the emphasis on interculturality addresses issues in literacy pedagogy politics critical thinking teacher education and cultural healing from a geopolitical perspective drawing on insights from both Western and Eastern traditions and the author's personal experience of being born in China and raised in Central Africa Northern Rhodesia Zambia Praise for CONFLUENCES Careful study of the essays in this collection has been an inspiration primarily because of Professor David Geoffrey Smith's deep commitments to the organic interpretability of life and living in the interests of generativity, hope and good faith. In curricular and pedagogical terms these commitments arise from sustained study of the various inheritances philosophical and otherwise that circulate around deliberations concerning children's education and knowledge deemed of most value. As an Indigenous scholar and someone committed to uncovering the unnamed colonial logics that continue to govern and structure formal education, I find especially helpful Professor Smith's untangling of the roots of the Euro American power nexus and its ongoing difficulties in creatively engaging traditions outside of its own self-determinations. As Professor Smith teaches through this work, it is in the careful hermeneutic practice of tracing out the lineages of the past and revealing their potential for openness in the present that the possibility of saying something hopeful about the future emerges.

Dwayne Donald, Ph.D., Associate Professor, Curriculum Studies and Indigenous Wisdom Traditions Department of Secondary Education, University of Alberta, Canada. Now and then a clear and authentic voice emerges from the surrounding cacophony as the machinery of the education establishment relentlessly grinds away a voice of conscience and wisdom rising above the babble of technocratic, bureaucratic, ideological and market-driven survivalism that permeates educational discourse today. I recognize such a voice in this newest book by Canadian educator Professor David Geoffrey Smith. Smith's reading of the world to use Paulo Freire's expression is particularly helpful to us in today's world teetering between denial and panic. I firmly believe that any hope for sanity in our time rests in our collectively and individually investigating how we have gotten ourselves into this current material and existential predicament. Smith's investigation shows an incredible intellectual depth of understanding gained through plumbing Western and Eastern philosophical traditions in an intercultural life journey on three continents through forty years of teaching and research. I delight in hearing his voice of wisdom that insists, for instance, that the nature of reality cannot be reduced to any human construct, scientific or otherwise, and that we must die into a new human freedom found in the joy of a new shared reality. Ultimately, his is a voice of unwavering hopefulness and a gaze that courageously faces a challenging world. I value his work more than any others in the contemporary curriculum theory field.

Supplanting the Postmodern David Rudrum, Nicholas Stavris, 2015-09-24. For more than a decade now, a steadily growing chorus of voices has announced that the postmodern literature, art, thought and culture of the late 20th century have come to an end. At the same time as this, the early years of the 21st century have seen a stream of critical formulations proclaiming a successor to postmodernism. Intriguing and exciting new terms such as remodernism, performatism, hypermodernism, automodernism, renewalism, altermodernism, digimodernism and metamodernism have been coined, proposed and debated as terms for what comes after the postmodern. Supplanting the Postmodern is the first anthology to collect the key writings in these debates in one place. The book is divided into two parts: the first, The Sense of an Ending, presents a range of positions in the debate around the demise of the postmodern; the second, Coming to Terms, with the New presents representative writings from the new isms mentioned above Each of the entries is prefaced by a brief introduction by the editors in which they outline its central ideas point out the similarities and or differences from other positions found in the anthology and suggest possible strengths and limitations to the insights presented in each piece
