Destined for Distinguished Oblivion Nicholas J. Wade, 2012-12-06 My first encounter with the name of William Charles Wells over twenty years ago was an oblique reference to his Essay upon single vision that Wheatstone 1838 made in a classical article on binocular vision The reference was enigmatic because it stated that few had paid attention to Wells theory of visual direction while doing little to inform the reader of its novelty I was fortunate in having the excellent facility of the Rare Books and Manuscripts Department of the Library at the University of St Andrews near at hand so that I could consult a copy of Wells monograph However I was not aware of the full import of its contents until Hiroshi Ono visited Dundee from York University Ontario in 1980 Hiroshi had previously formalised the principles of binocular visual direction that Hering 1879 had proposed He returned one day from St Andrews having read Wells Essay upon single vision amazed to have found that Wells had performed similar experiments and reached similar conclusions to Hering Hiroshi Ono has done much to bring Wells work on binocular single vision to the notice of visual scientists although its reception has not been without opposition As I read more of Wells work on vision I became aware of its breadth as well as its depth In addition to his essay on binocular single vision he wrote about and conducted experiments on accommodation visual acuity visual persistence and vertigo
