Reflections On Architectural Practice In The Nineties:

Reflections on Architectural Practices in the Nineties William S. Saunders, 1996 This timely and thought provoking collection of essays offers a detailed examination of contemporary architectural practice in the 1990s Reflections on Architectural Practices in the Nineties grew out of a year long symposium at the Harvard University Graduate School of Design which took stock of pressing issues in order to speculate on future paths for both education and practice Among the many challenges the architecture profession is currently facing are a constantly volatile economic climate rapid technological change and a general globalization of society Reflections presents 29 essays by leading critics scholars and designers essays that grapple with these and other issues and provide strategies for confronting them Several additional perspectives are presented through brief passages and images of built work so that the whole forms a collage of broad diverse viewpoints George Baird Thomas Fisher and Andrew Saint are among those who provide overviews of architectural practice and education Mack Scogin Carl Sapers and David Harvey among others discuss contemporary professional responsibilities and ethics Forms of practice in the 1990s are discussed by a variety of participants including Max Bond David Dillon Rob Quigley and Sharon Zukin Rem Koolhaas Saskia Sassen and William Lazonick with others discuss the impact of the global economy on architecture Finally Peter G Rowe presents some possible implications for design education Reflections on Architectural Practice in the Nineties is an essential compendium for anyone in the ever changing future of architecture

Ethics and the Practice of Architecture Barry Wasserman, Patrick J. Sullivan, Gregory Palermo, 2000-03-07 From theory to practice a unique well rounded guide to ethics for today's architect How does an architect assist a community in evaluating alternatives designs Resolve a dispute with a contractor Take into account a project's impact on the natural environment When it comes to questions like these making decisions about what ought to be done or what is the best or right solution requires more than sound technical knowledge and strong design talent It demands a solid understanding of the ethical issues that lie at the heart of architectural practice Ethics and the Practice of Architecture offers a complete broad based introduction to this crucial subject First it examines basic ethical theories and their application to architecture and discusses different ways of identifying ethical content in architecture Bridging the gap between theory and practice the second part of the book surveys different professional settings and building project processes that frequently hold ethical concerns and charts the ethical mandates that arise from them In the final section of the book thirty case studies explore a wide range of ethical dilemmas encountered in architectural practice with useful guidance on how to work through them effectively Arranged by topics that span the key phases of a project from pre design through post occupancy evaluation these case studies allow a detailed look at ethical concerns in real life situations where multiple issues are often at stake Providing a practical framework for the exploration of ethical issues in architecture today Ethics and the Practice of Architecture is an excellent resource for present and future architects in all areas of the field

The Domestic and the Foreign in Architecture

Ruth Baumeister, Sang Lee, 2007 For centuries across nations dialogue between the domestic and the foreign has affected and transformed architecture Today these dialogues have become highly intensified The Domestic and the Foreign in Architecture examines how these exchanges manifest themselves in contemporary architecture in terms of its aesthetic potential and its practice which in turn are impacted by broad economic cultural and political issues This book traces how diverse cultural encounters inevitably modify conventional categories standards and codes of architecture such as domestic identity its political and economic representations and the negotiations with what is deemed foreign Theoretical reflections by distinguished scholars are accompanied by interviews with some of the most influential architects practicing today as well as stunning visual presentations by professional photographers The Practice Turn in Architecture: Brussels after 1968

Isabelle Doucet, 2016-07-07 What makes a city What makes architecture And what is to be included in the discussions of architecture and the city Attempting to answer such ambitious questions this book starts from a city's specificity and complexity In response to recent debates in architectural theory around the agency and locus of critical action this book tests the potential of criticality through practice Rather than through conceptual and ideological categorisations it studies how architecture and criticality work within specific circumstances Brussels a complex city with a turbulent architectural and urban past forms a compelling case for examining the tensions between urban politics architectural imaginations society's needs and desires and the city's history and fabric Inspired by pragmatist relational philosophies this book tests the potential of criticality through practice It studies a series of critical actions and tools which occurred in Brussels architectural and urban culture after 1968 Weaved together Brussels architectural production emerges from a variety of actors including architects urban policy makers activists social workers and citizens but also architectural movements and ideologies urban renewal programs urban traumas plans and projects and mundane everyday practices and constructions This book contributes to the study of Brussels and offers a timely contribution to recent scholarship on the critical reappraisal of architectural debates from the 1960s through to the 1990s In addition by showing how pragmatist relational philosophies can be made relevant for architectural theory the book opens hopeful potentials for how architectural theory can better contribute to the formulation of a critical agenda for architecture The Emerald City and Other Essays on the Architectural Imagination

Daniel Willis, 1999 In The Emerald City Dan Willis takes us on a flight of imagination that paradoxically never strays far from the most tangible even intimate subjects His essays range from the Tower of Babel to the Wizard of Oz from Christo to Christmas trees from the lightness of being to the weight of architecture This ultimately optimistic book suggests that architecture is as vital as ever It is tempting to say that our present cultural situation has rendered architecture nearly impossible if not unnecessary But it is also possible to look to what our lives at the turn of the millennium typically lack fulfillment spirituality a sense of belonging weight and to conclude that the ground for architecture has never been more fertile The texts intelligent and readable draw equally from literary sources architectural practice philosophical analyses pop culture and everyday experiences Willis's perspective as a writer architect artist and teacher informs his work his texts are at once reflective and proactive as they challenge readers to rethink their participation in the built environment Accompanying the text are the author's original illustrations which link the forms and forces surrounding architecture at the end of the twentieth century in novel thought provoking ways

The SAGE Handbook of Architectural Theory C. Greig Crysler, Stephen Cairns, Hilde Heynen, 2012-01-20 Offers an intense scholarly experience in its comprehensiveness its variety of voices and its formal organization the editors took a risk experimented and have delivered a much needed resource that upends the status quo Architectural Histories journal of the European Architectural History Network Architectural theory interweaves interdisciplinary understandings with different practices intentions and ways of knowing This handbook provides a lucid and comprehensive introduction to this challenging and shifting terrain and will be of great interest to students academics and practitioners alike Professor Iain Borden UCL Bartlett School of Architecture In this collection architectural theory expands outward to interact with adjacent discourses such as sustainability conservation spatial practices virtual technologies and more We have in The Handbook of Architectural Theory an example of the extreme generosity of architectural theory It is a volume that designers and scholars of many stripes will welcome K Michael Hays Eliot Noyes Professor of Architectural Theory Harvard University The SAGE Handbook of Architectural Theory documents and builds upon the most innovative developments in architectural theory over the last two decades Bringing into dialogue a range of geographically institutionally and historically competing positions it examines and explores parallel debates in related fields The book is divided into eight sections Power Difference Embodiment Aesthetics Pleasure Excess Nation World Spectacle History Memory Tradition Design Production Practice Science Technology Virtuality Nature Ecology Sustainability City Metropolis Territory Creating openings for future lines of inquiry and establishing the basis for new directions for education research and practice the book is organized around specific case studies to provide a critical interpretive and speculative enquiry into the relevant debates in architectural theory

A Critical History of Contemporary Architecture Elie G. Haddad, David Rifkind, 2016-12-05 1960 following as it did the last CIAM meeting signalled a turning point for the Modern Movement From then on architecture was influenced by seminal texts by Aldo Rossi and Robert Venturi and gave rise to the first revisionary movement following Modernism Bringing together leading experts in the field this book provides a comprehensive critical overview of the developments in architecture from 1960 to 2010 It consists of two parts the first section providing a presentation of major movements in architecture after 1960 and the second a geographic survey that covers a wide range of territories around the world This book not only reflects the different perspectives of its various authors but also charts a middle course between the aesthetic histories that examine architecture solely in terms of its formal aspects and the more ideological histories that subject it to a critique that often skirts the discussion of its formal aspects

crucial new look at Aldo Rossi's built work in relationship to his writings, drawings and product design and explores his contributions to the architecture in postwar Italy The Architect Spiro Kostof, 2000 The Architect traces the role of the profession across the centuries and in different cultures showing the architect both as designer and as mediator between the client and the builder Rethinking Architectural Historiography Dana Arnold, Elvan Altan Ergut, Belgin Turan Ozkaya, 2006-09-27 Rather than subscribing to a single position this collection informs the reader about the current state of the discipline looking at changes across the broad field of methodological, theoretical and geographical plurality Divided into three sections Rethinking Architectural Historiography begins by renegotiating foundational and contemporary boundaries of architectural history in relation to other fields such as art history and archaeology It then goes on to critically engage with past and present histories disclosing assumptions, biases and absences in architectural historiography It concludes by exploring the possibilities provided by new perspectives reframing the discipline in the light of new parameters and problematics This timely and illustrated title reflects upon the current changes in historiographical practice exploring potential openings that may contribute further transformation of the disciplines and theories on architectural historiography and addresses the current question of the disciplinary particularity of architectural history The Autopoiesis of Architecture, Volume I Patrik Schumacher, 2011-04-20 Take a theoretical approach to architecture with The Autopoiesis of Architecture which presents the topic as a discipline with its own unique logic Architecture's conception of itself is addressed as well as its development within wider contemporary society Author Patrik Schumacher offers innovative treatment that enriches architectural theory with a coordinated arsenal of concepts facilitating both detailed analysis and insightful comparisons with other domains such as art, science and politics He explores how the various modes of communication comprising architecture depend upon each other, combine and form a unique subsystem of society that co-evolves with other important autopoietic subsystems like art, science, politics and the economy The first of two volumes that together present a comprehensive account of architecture's autopoiesis this book elaborates the theory of architecture's autopoiesis in 8 parts, 50 sections and 200 chapters Each of the 50 sections poses a thesis drawing a central message from the insights articulated within the respective section The 200 chapters are gathering and sorting the accumulated intelligence of the discipline according to the new conceptual framework adopted in order to catalyze and elaborate the new formulations and insights that are then encapsulated in the theses However while the theoretical work in the text of the chapters relies on the rigorous build up of a new theoretical language the theses are written in ordinary language with the theoretical concepts placed in brackets The full list of the 50 theses affords a convenient summary printed as appendix at the end of the book The second volume completes the analysis of the discourse and further proposes a new agenda for contemporary architecture in response to the challenges and opportunities that confront architectural design within the context of current societal and technological developments The Collaborators: Interactions in the Architectural Design Process Gilbert

Herbert, Mark Donchin, 2016-03-23 Illustrated by critical analyses of significant buildings including examples by such eminent architects as Adler and Sullivan Erich Mendelsohn and Louis Kahn this book examines collaboration in the architectural design process over a period ranging from the mid 19th century to the late 1960s The examples chosen located in England the United States Israel and South Africa are of international scope They have intrinsic interest as works of architecture and illustrate all facets of collaboration involving architects engineers and clients Prior to dealing with the case studies the theoretical framework is set in three introductory essays which discuss in general terms the organizational implications of partnerships associations and teams the nature of interactions between architect and engineer and cooperation and confrontation in the relationship between architect and client From this original standpoint the interactive role of the designers it examines and reinterprets such well known buildings as the Chicago Auditorium and the Kimbell Art Museum The re evaluation of St Pancras Station and its hotel questions common presumptions about the separation of professional roles played by its engineer and architect The account of the troubled history of Mendelsohn's project for the first Haifa Power House highlights the difficulties that arise when a determined and eminent architect confronts a powerful and demanding client In a later era the examination of the John Moffat Building which is less well known but deserving of wider recognition reveals how the fruitful collaboration of multiple architects can result in a successful unified design These case studies comprise a wide range of programmes challenges personalities and interactions Ultimately in five different ways in five different epochs and in five different circumstantial and cultural contexts this book shows how the dialogue between the players in the design process resonates upo Architecture and Capitalism Peggy Deamer, 2013-07-18 Architecture and Capitalism tells a story of the relationship between the economy and architectural design Eleven historians each discuss in brand new essays the time period they know best looking at cultural and economic issues which in light of current economic crises you will find have dealt with diverse but surprisingly familiar economic issues Told through case studies the narrative begins in the mid nineteenth century and ends with 2011 with introductions by Editor Peggy Deamer to pull the main themes together so that you can see how other architects in different times and in different countries have dealt with similar economic conditions By focussing on what previous architects experienced you have the opportunity to avoid repeating the past With new essays by Pier Vittorio Aureli Ellen Dunham Jones Keller Easterling Lauren Kogod Robert Hewison Joanna Merwood Salisbury Robin Schuldenfrei Deborah Gans Simon Sadler Nathan Rich and Micahel Sorkin The Global Architect Donald McNeill, 2009-06-02 The Global Architect explores the increasing significance of globalization processes on urban change architectural practice and the built environment In what is primarily a critical sociological overview of the current global architectural industry Donald McNeill covers the star system of international architects who combine celebrity and hypermobility the top firms whose offices are currently undergoing a major global expansion and the role of advanced information technology in expanding the geographical scope of the industry Architecture Live Projects Harriet

Harriss,Lynnette Widder,2014-05-23 Architecture Live Projects provides a persuasive evidence based advocacy for moving a particular kind of architectural learning known as Live Projects towards a holistic integration into current and future architectural curricula Live Projects are work completed in the borderlands between architectural education and built environment practice they include design build work community based design urban advocacy consulting and a host of other forms and models described by the book s international group of authors Because of their position Live Projects as vehicle for simultaneously providing teaching and service has the potential to recalibrate the contesting claims that both academia and profession make to architecture This collection of essays and case studies consolidates current discussions on theory and learning ambitions academic best practices negotiation with licensure and accreditation and considerations of architectural integrity It is an invaluable resource to current and future Live Projects advocates whether they aim to move from pedagogy into practice or practice into pedagogy

Exporting American Architecture 1870-2000 Jeffrey W. Cody,2005-06-27 The export of American architecture began in the nineteenth century as a disjointed set of personal adventures and commercial initiatives It continues today alongside the transfer of other aspects of American life and culture to most regions of the world Jeffrey Cody explains how why and where American architects planners building contractors and other actors have marketed American architecture overseas In so doing he provides a historical perspective on the diffusion of American building technologies architectural standards construction methods and planning paradigms Using previously undocumented examples and illustrations he shows how steel frame manufacturers shipped their products abroad enabling the erection of American style skyscrapers worldwide by 1900 and how this phase was followed by similar initiatives by companies manufacturing concrete components

Waste-Site Stories Brian Neville,Johanne Villeneuve,2012-02-01 Ours is a wasteful society consumed with care for its remains according to the contributors of Waste Site Stories Here scholars from around the world probe current notions of waste and the ways in which remains of different kinds recover value in the act of recollection and recycling In the wake of destructive experiences that continue to trouble memory there is something compelling about today s theoretical and artistic interest in waste and recycling The two terms provide a purchase on changing conditions of cultural memory on technological development and its sometimes toxic ecological and social fallout and on the legacy of personal and historical trauma They suggest new resources for the stories of our engagement with the things of the past and the sites where traces of history survive

The Ethical Architect Tom Spector,2012-04-17 Many believe that the moral mission of architecture has been in serious decline for the last 25 years In this important new book Tom Spector points out the dilemmas of architectural practice and offers a theoretical and practical basis for an examination and transformation of the quandaries the profession now faces What makes a good building or a good architect Are there limits to an architect s ethical or legal responsibilities in a building process where architecture plays an increasingly smaller role Is preservation a moral imperative What happens when building codes and ethical responsibilities are in conflict In The Ethical Architect

Spector investigates the moral underpinnings and implications of leading architectural theories subjecting them to the analytical techniques of moral philosophy His conclusions provide a road map to help architects make the right decision in the difficult tradeoffs that confront designers on a daily basis Spector estimates that more than 100 000 decisions go into the design of an average sized building The Ethical Architect is a work of theory but refers to real buildings and real world problems It is Spector s call to arms for his profession and a must read for practicing architects and students alike The

Culture of Building Howard Davis,2006-05-12 The Culture of Building describes how the built world including the vast number of buildings that are the settings for peoples everyday lives is the product of building cultures complex systems of people relationships building types techniques and habits in which design and building are anchored These cultures include builders bankers architects developers clients contractors craftspeople building inspectors planners and many others The product of these cultures which operate building after building is the built world of cities and settlements In this book Howard Davis uses historical contemporary and cross cultural examples to describe the nature and influence of these cultures He shows how building cultures reflect the general cultures in which they exist how they have changed over history how they affect the form of buildings and cities and how present building cultures which are responsible for the contemporary everyday environments may be improved Following the development of the idea of building cultures using several historical examples the book lays out a framework that puts such topics as craft and professionalism the vernacular and nonvernacular and design and construction in common frameworks Although the book ranges widely over different cultures and historical periods it emphasizes the transformations that took place in architecture and building practice from the late eighteenth century to the present Finally the book uses a series of contemporary examples that demonstrate the building culture as a living concept These examples which include built work as well as innovative processes that go beyond the work of architects alone are described as the seeds that can help the emergence of a better build world This beautiful book features over 260 color and black and white illustrations most from the authors extensive collection of slides and includes photographs prints and drawings from historical archives and contemporary architectural offices Design Ethics beyond Duty and Virtue Philippe d'Anjou,2017-06-20 Freedom is compelling in design it has to be acknowledged accepted and comprehended in all its existential complexity to better understand and engage the intricate ethical domain of design practice The book addresses that issue by thoroughly examining design ethics and design in general within an existentialist philosophical framework Its inquiry reveals a puzzling and unsettling reality of design ethics and hence what constitutes an ethical design practice where there is no exit for designers but complete acceptance of their freedom and responsibility This book makes a unique original and invaluable contribution to the design literature and design ethics scholarship Scholars professors students and professionals in all design disciplines as well as any person involved in arts humanities philosophy social sciences and engineering will find philosophical insights that will challenge design thinking and inspire them to rethink

design ethics as an agency of human existence making instead of code compliance Making a case for existentialist design ethics this book lays the ground for a radical transformation of how we conceive design ethics in design practice and the role of designers in the world
