(Re)Constructing Memory: Textbooks, Identity, Nation, and State James H. Williams, Wendy D. Bokhorst-Heng, 2016-07-08 This book engages readers in thirteen conversations presented by authors from around the world regarding the role that textbooks play in helping readers imagine membership in the nation Authors voices come from a variety of contexts some historical some contemporary some providing analyses over time But they all consider the changing portrayal of diversity belonging and exclusion in multiethnic and diverse societies where silenced invisible marginalized members have struggled to make their voices heard and to have their identities incorporated into the national narrative The authors discuss portrayals of past exclusions around religion ethnicity sexual orientation as they look at the shifting boundaries of insider and outsider This book is thus about who we are not only demographically but also in terms of the past especially how and whether we teach discredited pasts through textbooks The concluding chapters provides ways forward in thinking about what can be done to promote curricula that are more inclusive critical and positively bonding in increasingly larger and more inclusive contexts

Leading Works in Public Law Patrick O'Brien, Ben Yong, 2024-10-08 This book brings together a group of leading scholars working in public law and constitutional theory It examines accepted leading works of public law while also exploring those that deserve greater attention Over 13 chapters a group of leading public law experts each examine one leading work from the UK public law canon Each chapter critically reflects on the context of a work in public law taking into account not just the work and its context but also how it shapes and contributes to the broader discipline The final chapter offers an international overview of the chapters themselves reflecting critically on the scholarly canon of UK public law from the perspective of American constitutional scholarship The book will be of interest to scholars and students of constitutional law
