

1.1 Introduction

The purpose of this document is to provide guidance to Masters and operators of vessels undertaking side-by-side ship-to-ship (STS) transfer operations of crude oil, petroleum products, chemicals and liquefied gases, both at sea and in port. Other parties may also benefit from studying these guidelines. Such parties may include ship charterers, traders, STS service providers and those contracting STS service providers.

The structure of this Guide has been developed such that all general references to STS operations that are applicable irrespective of the cargo being transferred are included in the main section of the document. Recommendations that relate to a particular cargo are included in separate appendices for crude oil and petroleum products, chemicals, liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) and liquefied natural gas (LNG).

The advice contained in this Guide may be supplemented by instructions from individual ship operators in order that particular aspects of their own procedures can be covered.

The requirements of MARPOL Annex I, chapter II, The Prevention of Pollution During Transfer of Oil Cargo Between Oil Tankers at Sea (reference 35), should be adhered to for all applicable operations involving oil cargoes. The requirement for vessels to be provided with an STS operations plan should be considered for adoption by vessels involved in the STS transfer of other cargoes as recommended best practice. For further guidance on the content of STS operations plans, reference should be made to appendix A.

1.2 Background

The STS transfer of liquid cargoes in port and at sea has become common practice. Experience gained from these regular operations has proved that STS transfers are safe given the use of suitable equipment and compliance with proper procedures, including the establishment of safe environmental operating limits.

Amendments to MARPOL entered into force on 1 January 2011 and contain requirements relating to the at sea transfer of Annex I (oil) cargoes between vessels (see appendix A).
