

Chapter 3

Characteristics of the Driver, the Pedestrian, the Vehicle and the Road

3-1

Briefly describe the two types of visual acuity.

The two types of visual acuity are static and dynamic. The ability of a driver to identify an object when both the object and the driver are stationary depends on one's static acuity. Some factors that affect static acuity include the background brightness, contrast, and time. The ability of a driver to clearly detect a moving object depends on the driver's dynamic visual acuity.

3-2

(a) What color combinations are used for regulatory signs (e.g. speed limit signs) and for general warning signs (e.g. advance railroad crossing signs)
(b) Why are these combinations used?

Regulatory signs use a color combination of black lettering on white background, and advance warning signs use the color combination of black lettering on yellow background. These color combinations are used because they have been shown to be those to which the eye is most sensitive.

3-3

Determine your average walking speed.
Compare your results with that of the suggested walking speed in the MUTCD.
Which value is more conservative and why?

Pass #	Intersection Width (ft)	Walk Time (sec)	Walking Speed (ft/sec)
1	36	7	5.1
2	36	8.2	4.4
3	36	9.5	3.8
4	36	7.6	4.7
5	36	8	4.5
Average			4.5
