When an information source has been identified, the following four steps determine if that source is likely to be useful to the reader. First, ask if the source is relevant. Second, determine if the source is credible. Third, determine if the source is current. Fourth, determine if the source is complete. The source is relevant if it contains information that is useful to the reader. The source is credible if it is from a reliable source. The source is current if it is from a recent date. The source is complete if it contains all the information that is needed to understand the topic.

It really just seemed to many groups and to our executive director, "There were very little if not no other alternatives concerning what to do next and even to just completely shut down," this is a good question. Legislative work often requires compromise. In this case, we considered what would be the best outcome if we were to go the more adversarial route.
