Approaches to Assessment that Enhance Learning in Higher Education Stylianos Hatzipanagos,Rebecca Rochon,2014-10-10 This book addresses the need to diversify mainstream forms of assessment currently used in Higher Education in order to re establish the focus on the learning process Making assessment central to student learning is about returning to what current research emphasises the primary beneficiary of assessment should be the student To achieve this in the assessment context students and tutors must engage in a process of dialogue and feedback It seems to be widely accepted that assessment succeeds when the learner monitors identifies and then is able to bridge the gap between current learning achievements and agreed goals It is however more questionable whether adequate opportunities are given to students to be active participants in closing what has been termed the loop Contributors to this book have responded in different ways to the challenge of enhancing learning through assessment offering reasons for the lack of focus on learning within assessment processes as well as suggesting possible solutions The chapters demonstrate a balance between innovation and practicality drawing on the underpinning theories The result is both rich in discussion and an extremely useful resource for practitioners This book was originally published as a special issue of Assessment Evaluation in Higher Education

A Mind at a Time Mel Levine,2002-04-04 Different minds learn differently writes Dr Mel Levine one of the best known education experts and pediatricians in America today And that s a problem for many children because most schools still cling to a one size fits all education philosophy As a result these children struggle because their learning patterns don t fit the schools they are in In A Mind at a Time Dr Levine shows parents and others who care for children how to identify these individual learning patterns He explains how parents and teachers can encourage a child s strengths and bypass the child s weaknesses This type of teaching produces satisfaction and achievement instead of frustration and failure Different brains are differently wired Dr Levine explains There are eight fundamental systems or components of learning that draw on a variety of neurodevelopmental capacities Some students are strong in certain areas and some are strong in others but no one is equally capable in all eight Using examples drawn from his own extensive experience Dr Levine shows how parents and children can identify their strengths and weaknesses to determine their individual learning styles For example some students are creative and write imaginatively but do poorly in history because weak memory skills prevent them from retaining facts Some students are weak in sequential ordering and can't follow directions They may test poorly and often don't do well in mathematics In these cases Dr Levine observes the problem is not a lack of intelligence but a learning style that doesn't fit the assignment Drawing on his pioneering research and his work with thousands of students Dr Levine shows how parents and teachers can develop effective strategies to work through or around these weaknesses It's taken for granted in adult society that we cannot all be generalists skilled in every area of learning and mastery Nevertheless we apply tremendous pressure to our children to be good at everything They are expected to shine in math reading writing speaking spelling memorization comprehension problem solving and none of us adults can do all this observes Dr Levine Learning begins in school but it doesn't end there Frustrating a child's desire to learn will have lifelong repercussions This frustration can be avoided if we understand that not every child can do equally well in every type of learning We must begin to pay more attention to individual learning styles to individual minds urges Dr Levine so that we can maximize children's learning potential In A Mind at a Time he shows us how

Book Review Digest, 1923 Advances in Machine Learning I Jacek Koronacki, Zbigniew W Ras, Slawomir T. Wierzbichon, 2010-02-04 Professor Richard S Michalski passed away on September 20 2007 Once we learned about his untimely death we immediately realized that we would no longer have with us a truly exceptional scholar and researcher who for several decades had been influencing the work of numerous scientists all over the world not only in his area of expertise notably machine learning but also in the broadly understood areas of data analysis data mining knowledge discovery and many others In fact his influence was even much broader due to his creative vision integrity scientific excellence and exceptionally wide intellectual horizons which extended to history political science and arts Professor Michalski's death was a particularly deep loss to the whole Polish scientific community and the Polish Academy of Sciences in particular After graduation he began his research career at the Institute of Automatic Control Polish Academy of Science in Warsaw In 1970 he left his native country and held various prestigious positions at top US universities His research gained impetus and he soon established himself as a world authority in his areas of interest notably he was widely considered a father of machine learning

Educational Leadership and Organizational Management Victor C.X. Wang, Bernice Bain, John Hope, Catherine A. Hansman, 2016-10-01 This book is intended for students leaders and managers who wish to explore the personal relevance and conceptual bases of educational leadership and organizational management and to develop their expertise in this field It is a book written for both scholars and practitioners The general public will also appreciate the accessible language in the book There are two goals in the experiential learning process One is to learn the specifics of a particular subject matter in this case educational leadership and organizational management The other is to learn about one's own strengths and weaknesses as a learner This book is focused on the analysis of prevalent theories and concepts and their application to the development of leadership and management skills and the knowledge and attitudes required to solve real world problems in the workplace For decades students have focused their studies of educational leadership and organizational management theories in classroom settings without actual opportunities to apply these theories in the workplace A profound and significant lesson learned in history is that we must follow the principle of integrating theory with practice unity of theory with practice Then we can follow the policy of walking on two legs an analogy made by the late Chinese chairman Mao Ze Dong
