

Slicing

- Start with the knife at a sharp angle and with the tip of the knife on the cutting board.
- Move the knife forward and down to slice through the product.
- Finish the cut with the knife against the cutting board. For the second slice, raise the knife and pull backward. The tip of the knife should always be on the cutting board.

Dicing

- Cut the product into even slices of the desired thickness.
- Stack the slices and slice across the stack in even pieces.
- Stack the slices again and slice again.
- Chopping with a Chef's Knife
- Start by holding the tip of the knife against the cutting board with the guiding hand.
- Rock the knife rapidly up and down at the same time, while gradually moving the knife sideways across the product on the cutting board. The cuts should pass through all parts of the product.
- After several cuts, redistribute the product and start again.
- Continue until all the product is chopped to the desired fineness.

Restaurant Kitchen Manual Jeffrey D. Schim, 2017-06-14 In this manual your employees will learn the basics in your restaurant kitchen It is very important that your kitchen staff learn and understand everything outlined in this restaurant kitchen manual In so many cases most cooks don t know time and temperature food safety shelf life dates basic position training and etc During the interview process you may run into an applicant that appears to be awesome The applicant will say what they think you want to hear they talk the talk but can they walk the walk After you conducted a reference check you can decide if the applicant is a good fit for your restaurant The next step is kitchen training Everyone goes through kitchen training whether they are experienced or inexperienced You truly don t know if that applicant is on the up and up on their experience Typically experienced employees will learn faster than non experienced employees and therefore will require less training days Non experienced employees will require more attention TLC and quite possibly extended training days
