M. Ligrani,Naval Postgraduate School (U.S.),1984 The detailed procedure for constructing subminiature hot wire sensors is given The wire used is 0.625 micrometers diameter 90 per cent platinum 10 per cent rhodium plated with 30-40 micrometers diameter of silver For construction the plated wire is first bent into the appropriate shape and then soldered onto stainless steel prongs Portions of the silver are then etched removing it entirely from a 200 mm-400 mm length of platinum rhodium wire Small portions of copper plating are then added to give the desired platinum rhodium wire sensing length and to insure that good mechanical and electrical connections exist to the sensor With this procedure subminiature hot wire sensors have been constructed which operate with minimal drift and are mechanically robust for long periods of time The sensors have been demonstrated to be a useful research tool for turbulence research because they provide a more accurate means to measure energy levels of small scale turbulent motions than is possible with other measurement devices      Development of Subminiature Multi-sensor Hot-wire Probes ,1988

Automotive Wiring Dennis W. Parks,2011-12-08 Automotive wiring is a primary skill required for proper completion and safe operation of any custom build whether it is a traditional custom hot rod or classic daily driver While restorers typically have the option of buying a new or reproduction wiring harness custom enthusiasts often have few options except to figure out how to do it themselves This book guides builders through every step from determining what components they need to selecting wire type and gauge methods of connection and other considerations The book includes numerous charts showing typical configurations and suggested installations A troubleshooting section lends a hand in tracking down the inevitable problems that can arise Automotive Wiring Dennis W. Kauser, AIR FORCE INST OF TECH WRIGHT-PATTERSON AFB OH SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING., 1976 This thesis reports the results of an experimental investigation of rotation tests conducted with two X wire sensor arrangements in the potential core of a free jet and the influence of small temperature variations on the linearized response of a hot wire sensor The tests were performed in the free jet issuing from a 10 cm x 1 cm nozzle having turbulence intensity of 0.3% at the exit plane The two X wire sensors used were TSI Models 1240 and 1241 Each sensor arrangement consisted of two platinum coated tungsten wires having 38.1 micron diameter active sensor length 12.5 mm and separated by 1 mm The tests were conducted at Reynolds Numbers of 72, 1454 and 21,800 based upon wire diameter Investigation showed that both X sensors had a strong preference for the direction of mean motion and the error due to misalignment in yaw was largest at very small misalignment angles The Model 1240 showed insensitivity to misalignment in pitch in the upper range of Reynolds number but Model 1241 was highly sensitive to misalignment in pitch In the 2nd part of the study air temperature was increased from 4°F to 20°F above the reference and its influence on the linearized response of the upstream sensor of Model 1240 was observed Test results showed a strong influence of the variations in air temperature on the linearized sensor response at velocities below approximately 100 ft/sec
