Measuring Prison Performance Gerald G. Gaes, Scott D. Camp, Julianne B. Nelson, William G. Saylor, 2004-09-14 Gaes and his distinguished coauthors offer a comprehensive analysis of public versus private management of prisons a competition that originated in the 1980s with the introduction of private facilities into the criminal justice system The authors argue that prison performance must be measured in reference to the goals of a particular prison system and introduce the technique of multilevel modeling to allow for simultaneous measurement of the individual and the institution They also show how their analytic framework can be applied to other criminal justice components prosecution adjudication postrelease supervision policing and to evaluating the privatization of almost any publicly administered service They contend that the ability to meaningfully compare public and private prisons can better inform penal policy and improve prison performance and accountability This book will be a valuable resource for public administrators and policy analysts corrections personnel and criminologists
