

Tiny Homes

Over the past 70 to 80 years, the household lifestyles of middle class Americans have been getting increasingly more extravagant. In 1949, the average size of a single-family home was 909 square feet. By 2021, the average size of an American single family home had reached 2,480 square feet! Not only do some people find the size of these homes excessive; for many they are also unaffordable. For most people, purchasing a home in America today comes with a mountain of debt, a sinkhole of interest, and at least 30 years of working to pay for it all, often in a job that homeowner doesn't even really want to be doing. They not only have the advantage of being portable. They are also significantly less expensive than a conventional single family home. Depending on how handy you are with construction and the availability of materials, a tiny house can be built for as little as $8,000, though they typically cost the new homeowner between $30,000 and $60,000. But even $60,000 is a fraction of what people are paying for single family real estate in many areas of the country.

The decision to go tiny requires some radical self-evaluation. What do people really need to live comfortably? In many areas of the world, people still live far simpler lives than those lived by Americans, who are continually assaulted on television, radio, and social media with advertisements designed to make them think they need more and more personal belongings to be happy. In reality, the basic needs of a human
