

A handcrafted marble coaster is shown on a brown cardboard base. The coaster is built from a series of connected, curved cardboard strips. The top surface of the track is lined with a red paper strip, while the sides are lined with a yellow paper strip. A bright green paper strip is visible in the center of the track, likely serving as a guide or a starting point for the marble. The entire structure is supported by a small wooden peg or stick. The background is a plain white surface.
