Practical 1: Dissection of a sheep heart

Heart Dissection Walk Through :

The heart dissection is probably one of the most difficult dissections you will do. Part of the reason it is so difficult to learn is that the heart is not perfectly symmetrical, but it is so close that it becomes difficult to discern which side you are looking at (dorsal, ventral, left or right). Finding the vessels is directly related to being able to orient the heart correctly and figuring out which side you are looking at.

The heart is also difficult because the fatty tissue that surrounds the heart can obscure the openings to the vessels. This means that you really must experience the heart with your hands and feel your way to find the openings. Many people will be squeamish about this, and because the heart is slippery, it is easy to drop. Don't be shy with the heart; use your fingers to feel your way through the dissection.

1. Step One: Orientation

When you first remove your heart from the bag, you will see a lot of fatty tissue surrounding it. It is usually a waste of time to try to remove this tissue. You may also want to arm yourself with some kind of markers for the parts you find, colour pencils work great to identify a vessel and you will see many used to mark openings on the heart.

There are a few clues to help you figure out the left and the right side, but often the packaging and preserving process can cause the heart to be misshapen. If you are lucky, the heart will be nicely preserved and you will see that the front (ventral) side of the heart has a couple of key features:

- 1) a large pulmonary trunk(artery) that extends off the top of it
- 2) the flaps of the auricles covering the top of the atria.
- 3) the curve of the entire front side, whereas the backside is much flatter.

A Living History of Immunology Kendall Arthur Smith, 2015-11-04 In the highly competitive world of biomedical science often the rush to publish and to be recognized as first with a new discovery concept or method is lost in the hurly burly of the moment as the maddening crowd moves on to the next new thing One of the great things about immunology today is that it has only become mature as a science within the last half century and especially within the past 35 years as a consequence of the revolution of molecular immunology which has taken place only since 1980 Consequently most of those who have contributed to our new understanding of how the immune system functions are still alive and well and still contributing Thus A Living History of Immunology collates many stories from the investigators who actually performed the experiments that have established the frontiers of immunology Accordingly this volume combats revisionist science by those who want to alter history by telling the stories a different way than actually happened In this regard one of the good things about science vs other disciplines is that we have the written record of what was done when it was done and by whom Even so we do not have the complete story or narrative of how and why experiments were done and what made the differences that led to success This volume captures and chronicles some of these stories from the past fifty years in immunology
