Nigam,2024-02-18 Motherhood is a powerful virtue However in a patriarchal society it is construed narrowly to uphold the heteronormative family norms which prioritize men over women This traditional framework overlooks the diverse family forms and alienates female headed households Rather families headed by lone mothers are chastened and labelled as broken pathological and degenerative Despite constitutional guarantees of equality and justice the state and society alienate them deny them visibility and absolve themselves of the responsibilities of protecting their citizenship rights Nevertheless for ages single mothers despite all hardships have been defying patriarchal norms and are bringing up their children solely with little support available from their families society or the state Rather they are challenging the dominant and hegemonic male breadwinner and provider model This work examines this active and empowered notion of motherhood or feminist and emancipatory mothering while focusing on how lone mothers are redefining and reshaping the socio cultural norms to pave the social transformation through their maternal activism With the increase in the number of female headed households this work recommends the need for an alternative approach to disrupt the dominant themes of victimhood poverty destitution and neglect by deploying the axis of intersectionality It suggests that the state needs to evolve a comprehensive empowerment framework to specifically recognize the entitlements of single mothers as citizens and take steps to advance their citizenship rights

Australian Public Affairs Information Service, What Women Want Geoff Dench,2017-09-29 Over the last few decades families in many highly developed nations such as Great Britain have been held together by grandparents Yet as single motherhood spreads into this generation extended families without men or work are becoming more common The proportion of single mothers with daughters who are also state dependent single mothers is growing The British underclass has arrived Women who can see this happening around them and understand its roots are the ones most able to revive traditional values but policymakers are looking the other way This fuels alienation from mainstream political parties What Women Want argues that sociology and social policy in Britain have failed to recognize how women's orientation to paid work and a career remains different from men's Most women now have paid jobs but the happiest are those working only part time with plenty of time to enjoy motherhood and being a homemaker A revised sexual division of labor has emerged and the author argues that denial of this in Britain may be contributing to the breakdown of family life A working male partner is a major factor in making women happy The least content are single mothers dependent on state welfare who know that the state expects them to repay its support by becoming full time workers when their children reach a certain age Many single mothers may be victims of policies prioritizing work for women Single motherhood has grown alongside male breadwinners This is a new edition of a book previously distributed only in the United Kingdom Parliamentary Papers Great Britain.
