Dear Van:

Just a word in explanation of my telephone call this afternoon in regard to the #92 project.

I was well impressed by Dr. Briggs' presentation two weeks ago and it looks as if the project were going ahead with some probability of success. However, there are some aspects of the situation which are disquieting. One of them is that our English friends are apparently farther ahead than we are, despite the fact that we have the most in number and the best in quality of the nuclear physicists of the world. A second disquieting element is the fact that we have reason to believe that the Germans are very active. A third feature is the fact that only a very few of our own nuclear physicists are being put to work on the project and even those who are working on it are decidedly restive over such situations as the following.

The committee practically never meets. The conduct of the business is extremely slow. For example, a considerable time after one of our most prominent physical chemists had been selected to work with another physical chemist on one of the most promising and active aspects of the problem, he had as yet received no appointment or information about the plans. Furthermore, the work has been conducted in such secrecy that even members within the working organization do not appear to know and to get authorization to find out about what is being done in closely related lines which should influence their activities. Still another source of complaint is that some of the most interesting lines of development and use have received so little attention that any possible application in the present emergency is being so far removed as to be practically unavailable.

Ernest Lawrence, in his numerous contacts with nuclear physicists and chemists, has, on the other hand, become quite

Papers On World War II:

Reporting World War II G. Kurt Piehler, Ingo Trauschweizer, 2023-04-25 This set of essays offers new insights into the journalistic process and the pressures American front line reporters experienced covering World War II Transmitting stories through cable or couriers remained expensive and often required the cooperation of foreign governments and the American armed forces Initially reporters from a neutral America documented the early victories by Nazi Germany and the Soviet invasion of Finland Not all journalists strove for objectivity During her time reporting from Ireland Helen Kirkpatrick remained a fierce critic of that country's neutrality Once the United States joined the fight after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor American journalists supported the struggle against the Axis powers but this volume will show that reporters even when members of the army sponsored newspaper Stars and Stripes were not mere ciphers of the official line African American reporters Roi Ottley and Ollie Stewart worked to bolster the morale of Black GIs and undermined the institutional racism endemic to the American war effort Women front line reporters are given their due in this volume examining the struggles to overcome gender bias by describing triumphs of Th r se Mabel Bonney Iris Carpenter Lee Carson and Anne Stringer The line between public relations and journalism could be a fine one as reflected by the U S Marine Corps creating its own network of Marine correspondents who reported on the Pacific island campaigns and had their work published by American media outlets Despite the pressures of censorship the best American reporters strove for accuracy in reporting the facts even when dependent on official communiqu s issued by the military Many wartime reporters even when covering major turning points sought to embrace a reporting style that recorded the experiences of average soldiers Often associated with Ernie Pyle and Bill Mauldin the embrace of the human interest story served as one of the enduring legacies of the conflict Despite the importance of American war reporting in shaping perceptions of the war on the home front as well as shaping the historical narrative of the conflict this work underscores how there is more to learn Readers will gain from this work a new appreciation of the contribution of American journalists in writing the first version of history of the global struggle against Nazi Germany imperial Japan and fascist Italy Public Papers of the Presidents of the United States, William J.
