Spielman,Sohail J. Malik,Paul Dorosh,Nuzhat Ahmad,2017-01-23 Historically agriculture has been crucial to Pakistan s economic growth and development and remains so even today The sector employs almost half of the country s labor force supplies key inputs to the country s manufacturing sector generates a significant share of export earnings and nourishes a rapidly growing population Further beyond agriculture is the wider rural economy including nonfarm economic activities such as small enterprises transport services village retail shops local schools and clinics all of which account for an estimated 40 to 57 percent of total rural household income Given the importance of these rural activities the slow growth of agriculture in recent years averaging just 2.8 percent during the period 2010-2014 should be a source of concern for Pakistan. Can the country's agricultural sector and rural economy once again play a significant role in growth and development? Can it contribute to poverty reduction? Agriculture and the Rural Economy in Pakistan: Issues, Outlooks and Policy Priorities seeks to answer these questions by examining the performance of both agriculture and the rural economy. The authors identify several measures that can promote agricultural productivity growth as well as wider economic and social development. These include increasing the efficiency of water use in the Indus river basin irrigation system especially in the face of climate change; reforming policies and regulations that govern markets for agricultural inputs and commodities; and improving the provision of rural public services for health, education, women's empowerment and community development. The analyses and conclusions in Agriculture and the Rural Economy in Pakistan will be of use to policy makers, development specialists and others concerned with Pakistan's development.

Economic Transformation of a Developing Economy Lakhwinder Singh, Nirvikar Singh, 2016-02-12. Foreword by Prof Kaushik Basu. This book traces the development experience of one of India's most dynamic and prosperous states, Punjab, which has provided the country with a much needed degree of food security. The relative regression of Punjab's economy in the post-economic reforms period and slow current economic growth give cause for concern. The contributions in this book address the question of why the structural transformation of Punjab's economy has fallen into the middle income trap. Each investigates the policy constraints influencing the relative stagnation of the economy and suggests appropriate measures for alleviating them. By integrating theoretical constructs and new evidence, the authoritative contributions diagnose the nature of the current problems and offer practical solutions. They cover important issues such as the crisis of agrarian transition, agrarian markets and distributive justice, employment growth and transition to non-agriculture sectors, fiscal policy, external factors in economic transformation and perspectives on rejuvenating the state's economy.
