revised interpretation of Eisenhower's actions in relation to rockets, missiles and satellites namely that Eisenhower was operating on a parallel path to the established norm that started with the Bikini Atoll Castle H bomb tests developed through the CIA's reconnaissance efforts and was distilled in the Aeronautics and Space Act of 1958 which set a policy for US involvement in outer space that matched Eisenhower's desire for a balanced budget and fundamental belief in maintaining peace. President Eisenhower was not interested in joining a space race while national security underpinned his thinking; his space policy actions were strategic steps that actively sidestepped internecine armed forces rivalry and provided a logical next step for both civilian and military space programs at the completion of the International Geophysical Year. In reassessing the United States' first space policy, the book adds to the revisionism under way in relation to the Eisenhower presidency, focusing on the 'Helping Hands' that enabled him to wage peace.
