

Photosynthesis

How do light-dependent and light-independent reactions provide food for a plant?

Why?

Plants are the original solar panels. Through photosynthesis a plant is able to convert electromagnetic (light) energy into chemical energy. This energy is used not only to keep the plant alive, but also to sustain all creatures that rely on the plant for food and shelter. Plants and photosynthetic algae are also the source of all oxygen on Earth, allowing the inhabitants of Earth to benefit from our most plentiful renewable energy resource.

Workbook 19 Ntiyiso Shingwenyana, Turret Correspondence College (Johannesburg), 1987 Plant Respiration Hans Lambers, Universitat Illes Balears, 2005-07-05 Respiration in plants as in all living organisms is essential to provide metabolic energy and carbon skeletons for growth and maintenance As such respiration is an essential component of a plant's carbon budget Depending on species and environmental conditions it consumes 25-75% of all the carbohydrates produced in photosynthesis even more at extremely slow growth rates Respiration in plants can also proceed in a manner that produces neither metabolic energy nor carbon skeletons but heat This type of respiration involves the cyanide resistant alternative oxidase it is unique to plants and resides in the mitochondria The activity of this alternative pathway can be measured based on a difference in fractionation of oxygen isotopes between the cytochrome and the alternative oxidase Heat production is important in some flowers to attract pollinators however the alternative oxidase also plays a major role in leaves and roots of most plants A common thread throughout this volume is to link respiration including alternative oxidase activity to plant functioning in different environments Photosynthesis and Respiration William G. Photosynthesis, Respiration, and Climate Change Katie M. Becklin, Joy K. Ward, Danielle A. Way, 2021-06-01 Changes in atmospheric carbon dioxide concentrations and global climate conditions have altered photosynthesis and plant respiration across both geologic and contemporary time scales Understanding climate change effects on plant carbon dynamics is critical for predicting plant responses to future growing conditions Furthermore demand for biofuel fibre and food production is rapidly increasing with the ever expanding global human population and our ability to meet these demands is exacerbated by climate change This volume integrates physiological ecological and evolutionary perspectives on photosynthesis and respiration responses to climate change We explore this topic in the context of modeling plant responses to climate including physiological mechanisms that constrain carbon assimilation and the potential for plants to acclimate to rising carbon dioxide concentration warming temperatures and drought Additional chapters contrast climate change responses in natural and agricultural ecosystems where differences in climate sensitivity between different photosynthetic pathways can influence community and ecosystem processes Evolutionary studies over past and current time scales provide further insight into evolutionary changes in photosynthetic traits the emergence of novel plant strategies and the potential for rapid evolutionary responses to future climate conditions Finally we discuss novel approaches to engineering photosynthesis and photorespiration to improve plant productivity for the future The overall goals for this volume are to highlight recent advances in photosynthesis and respiration research and to identify key challenges to understanding and scaling plant physiological responses to climate change The integrated perspectives and broad scope of research make this volume an excellent resource for both students and researchers in many areas of plant science including plant physiology ecology evolution climate change and biotechnology For this volume 37 experts contributed chapters that span modeling empirical and applied research on photosynthesis and respiration responses to climate change Authors represent the following seven countries Australia 6 Canada 9 England 5 Germany 2 Spain 3 and the United States 12 Plant
