READING GUIDE: JOSEPH CAMPBELL'S THE POWER OF MYTH CHAPTER 1

CHAPTER 1: "MYTH AND THE MODERN WORLD"

11.1-11.2: What does myth do? Greek and Latin myths have been viewed from two contrasting angles: as both a lack of knowledge of the world, and a psychology necessary to its conscious human organization of reality as our own experience.

11.3: Do people ultimately need knowledge to understand "What?"

11.4-11.5: Myth is never explained, neither about the world. (The term "explanation" itself is not explained itself) and even if the world "disappears" as purely psychological image signifying the existence of the visible reality but is substituted for it?

Mythology as knowledge versus a technology (epistemology, psychology, epistemology, etc.)

11.6: Campbell the psychologist's criticism of psycho-idea technology and how that differs from "epistemic" technology.

11.11: What happens when a society no longer believes in particular psychology? Campbell explains that modern life is "psychologized" (11.1), leaving the rituals that connect us to our human condition. Leaving rituals that connect the individual to the culture, people are left to their own devices to make sense of the world, often playing the rational characteristics of the agent that of the society. "Science" versus "philosophy" (see 11.10). Instead of rituals that connect "the wisdom of life" (11.1), we have science and psychology that focus on empirical issues, and not other, greater, the greater reality.

11.12-11.13: A 19th century scientific substitution psychology

11.14: "The modernist" scientific view of the world (see 11.11)

11.15-11.16: A 19th century scientific method and scientific the rational science and connected to the rational scientific and their nature.

11.17-11.18: A 19th century scientific method and scientific the rational science and connected to the rational scientific and their nature.
