

3. Marking points

3.1 Marking of lists

This applies to questions requiring a set number of responses, but for which students have provided extra responses. The general principle to be followed in such a situation is that 'right + wrong = wrong'.

Each error / contradiction negates each correct response. So, if the number of errors / contradictions equals or exceeds the number of marks available for the question, no marks can be awarded.

However, responses considered to be neutral (indicated as * in example 1) are not penalised.

Example 1: What is the pH of an acidic solution?

[1 mark]

Student	Response	Marks awarded
1	green, 5	0
2	red*, 5	1
3	red*, 8	0

Example 2: Name two magnetic materials.

[2 marks]

Student	Response	Marks awarded
1	iron, steel, copper	1

3.2 Marking of questions requiring a list

For questions requiring a specified number of responses (marked as a specified number of marks), an error / contradiction in a response negates all responses. For questions requiring a specified number of responses, but which can be given in the form of a list, an error / contradiction in the content of the question, such as 'name two', is penalised.

3.3 Marking questions requiring a calculation

Errors / contradictions are penalised for each stage of the calculation. For questions requiring a calculation, an error / contradiction in a calculation negates the whole stage from that point. For questions requiring a calculation, the calculation itself may be awarded.

Full marks are only awarded for a correct final answer from a correct working.

3.4 Interpretation of 'or'

Answers using the word 'or' should be given credit only if it is clear that this is either a list or a correct answer.
