Bourne, 2013-07-04 Offers a range of research into how primary classrooms actually work looking at the development of specific curriculum areas and how they can be taught and assessed across the ability range. Online Science Learning: Best Practices and Technologies Downing, Kevin, Holtz, Jennifer, 2008-05-31

The continued growth in general studies and liberal arts and science programs online has led to a rise in the number of students whose science learning experiences are web based. However little is known about what is actually going on in web based science courses at the level of the disciplines within liberal arts and sciences or the corresponding course design features. Online Science Learning Best Practices and Technologies reviews trends and efforts in web based science instruction and evaluates contemporary philosophies and pedagogies of online science instruction. This title on an emergent and vital area of education clearly demonstrates how to enrich the academic character and quality of web based science instruction. Conditions of School

Performance in Seven Countries Hans Döbert, Hans Döbert, Eckhard Klieme, Wendelin Sroka, Eckhard Klieme, Wendelin Sroka, 2004. Environmental Ethics for the Long Term John Nolt, 2014-09-25 Broad in scope this introduction to environmental ethics considers both contemporary issues and the extent of humanity's responsibility for distant future life. John Nolt a logician and environmental ethicist interweaves contemporary science logical analysis and ethical theory into the story of the expansion of ethics beyond the human species and into the far future. Informed by contemporary environmental science the book deduces concrete policy recommendations from carefully justified ethical principles and ends with speculations concerning the deepest problems of environmental ethics. Pedagogical features include chapter outlines annotated suggestions for further readings the explanations of key terms when first mentioned and an extensive glossary.

The Insurance Year Book, 1920. Sand, Snow, and Stardust Gretchen Heefner, 2025-05-05 A vivid tour of US military efforts to understand survive and command harsh environments worldwide and beyond. Deserts the Arctic outer space these extreme environments are often seen as inhospitable places at the edges of our maps. But from the 1940s through the 1960s spurred by the diverse and unfamiliar regions the US military had navigated during World War II the United States defense establishment took a keen interest in these places dispatching troops to the Aleutian Islands North Africa the South Pacific and beyond. To preserve the country's status as a superpower after the war to pave runways and build bridges engineers had to understand and then conquer dunes permafrost and even the surface of the moon. Sand Snow and Stardust explores how the US military generated a new understanding of these environments and attempted to master them intending to cement

America's planetary power Operating in these regions depended as much on scientific and cultural knowledge as on military expertise and technology From General George S Patton learning the hard way that the desert is not always hot to the challenges of constructing a scientific research base under the Arctic ice to the sheer implausibility of modeling Martian environments on Earth Gretchen Heefner takes us on a wry expedition into the extremes and introduces us to the people who have shaped our insight into these extraordinary environments Even decades after the first manned space flight plans for human space exploration and extraplanetary colonization are still based on what we know about stark habitats on Earth An entertaining survey of the relationship between environmental history and military might Sand Snow and Stardust also serves as a warning about the further transformation of the planet whether through desertification melting ice caps or attempts to escape it entirely

The Problem of Rationality in Science and its Philosophy J. Misiek, 2012-12-06 Rationality of science was the topic of two conferences held in 1988 and 1989 organized by the Department of Philosophy of Science Institute of Philosophy Jagiellonian University Both conferences included a small group of invited speakers This book contains a selection of papers presented there It is intended mainly for specialists in the philosophy of science and scientists interested in philosophy Students and especially postgraduate students would also benefit from reading it The first conference Popper Polanyi and the Notion of Rationality was held from 1 to 5 October 1988 in Janowice The second conference The Aim and Rationality of Science was held in Cracow at the Jagiellonian University from 4 to 10 June 1989 The topics of both conferences were inspired by our late friend Dr Tomasz Kocowski who many years earlier invited me and my colleagues from the Department to participate in research concerning the problem of creativity and serve him and other psychologists as methodological advisors Personal contacts with this intelligent and inquisitive man helped us to realize that we could not fulfill our task while adhering to the received view in the philosophy of science This experience helped us to see science not only as scientific knowledge but also as a process of research We then turned our attention to Michael Polanyi who seemed to provide the philosophy we were looking for

Russia The target audience of the book consists of scholars studying the features of development of the global economic system at the present stage and the prospects for its future progress Scientific American ,1876 Monthly magazine devoted to topics of general scientific interest Soviet Studies in Philosophy ,1967 The Encyclopedia of Christianity Erwin Fahlbusch,Geoffrey William Bromiley,1999 Containing more than 300 articles covering the alphabetical entries P Sh this book also includes articles on significant topics ranging from Paul political theology and the Qur an to religious liberty salvation history and scholasticism To Teach, To Delight, and To Move David S. Cunningham,2004-10-22 This book initiates a new conversation about how theological education might be re envisioned for the twenty first century church The prevailing curricular structure in today s seminaries and divinity schools was fashioned in a very different era one that assumed the continued cultural dominance of Christianity and the continued academic dominance of the canons of Enlightenment reason Neither assumption is viable in today s post Christian world hence our new circumstances demand a new vision for theological education The authors of this volume offer an important resource for this project through their creative appropriation of the classical rhetorical tradition particularly as it has been rehabilitated in the contemporary context Like St Augustine they believe that the chief goals of Christian theology are similar to those of classical rhetoric to teach to delight and to move And the authors are united in their conviction that these must also be the goals of theological education in a post Christian era This volume arises out of a passionate commitment to the cause of theological education The authors hail from a wide range of denominational traditions and have taught in numerous seminaries and divinity schools They have also studied the classical and postmodern rhetorical traditions in both theory and practice They met as a group on numerous occasions to read one another s contributions to the volume and to offer guidance for the process of rewriting As a result this book is much more than a mere collection of essays it is a jointly authored work and one which presents an integrated vision for the future of theological education
