 plants are constantly exposed to multiple abiotic such as drought salinity cold flooding heavy metal and heat and or biotic bacterial fungal viral stress factors that hinder their growth and development subsequently leading to decreases in quality and yield During the last two decades many classical genetic and breeding approaches have been used to develop stress tolerant and climate adaptable plants that can provide a better yield to meet food demands Climate change poses a major risk to food security as the world faces frequent floods droughts heat waves and the emergence of new invasive pests and diseases Novel genomic and genetic approaches look promising to improve plant resilience under stress conditions and achieve sustainable crop improvements Recent advances in sequencing technologies have facilitated the generation of a plethora of genomic resources in a variety of crop and plant species With the increased availability of genomic and transcriptomic data an increasing number of quantitative trait loci and candidate genes are being identified for their application in improving plant tolerance to abiotic and biotic stresses New approaches such as genomic selection and genomic assisted breeding have been utilized to develop stress tolerant cultivars in a variety of plant species Furthermore transgenics and rapidly evolving CRISPR technology offer great potential for plant improvement This Research Topic aims to provide insights into the molecular and genetic factors involved in imparting abiotic and biotic stress tolerance in plants and their application in enhancing plant adaptation to these stress conditions To review the progress in this research category we invite manuscripts related to the plant responses to abiotic biotic stresses and trait improvement through genomic selection and transgenic or gene editing approaches Studies including physiological biochemical and molecular genetic analyses revealing the mechanisms involved in plant response to abiotic biotic stresses are welcome Topic editor Dr Balaji Aravindhana Pandian is employed by Enko Chem Inc All other Topic Editors declare no competing interests with regard to the Research Topic subject
