discourse In the 1860s northern newspapers attacked Abraham Lincoln's policies by attacking his character using the terms drunk baboon too slow foolish and dishonest Steadily on the increase in political argumentation since then the argumentum ad hominem or personal attack argument has now been carefully refined as an instrument of oppo tactics and going negative by the public relations experts who craft political campaigns at the national level In this definitive treatment of one of the most important concepts in argumentation theory and informal logic Douglas Walton presents a normative framework for identifying and evaluating ad hominem or personal attack arguments Personal attack arguments have often proved to be so effective in election campaigns for example that even while condemning them politicians have not stopped using them In the media in the courtroom and in everyday confrontation ad hominem arguments are easy to put forward as accusations are difficult to refute and often have an extremely powerful effect on persuading an audience Walton gives a clear method for analyzing and evaluating cases of ad hominem arguments found in everyday argumentation His analysis classifies the ad hominem argument into five clearly defined subtypes abusive direct circumstantial bias poisoning the well and tu quoque you're just as bad arguments and gives methods for evaluating each type Each subtype is given a well defined form as a recognizable type of argument The numerous case studies show in concrete terms many practical aspects of how to use textual evidence to identify and analyze fallacies and to evaluate argumentation as fallacious or not in particular cases
