Scaling, Uncertainty, and 3d Coupled Code Calculations in Nuclear Technology Cesare Frepoli, Alessandro Petruzzi, 2008-04-01 Odyn Code Calculation, 1980 Verification Test Calculations for the Source Term Code Package, 1986 The purpose of this report is to demonstrate the reasonableness of the Source Term Code Package STCP results Hand calculations have been performed spanning a wide variety of phenomena within the context of a single accident sequence a loss of all ac power with late containment failure in the Peach Bottom BWR plant and compared with STCP results The report identifies some of the limitations of the hand calculation effort The processes involved in a core meltdown accident are complex and coupled Hand calculations by their nature must deal with gross simplifications of these processes Their greatest strength is as an indicator that a computer code contains an error for example that it doesn't satisfy basic conservation laws rather than in showing the analysis accurately represents reality Hand calculations are an important element of verification but they do not satisfy the need for code validation The code validation program for the STCP is a separate effort In general the hand calculation results show that models used in the STCP codes e.g. MARCH TRAP MELT VANESA obey basic conservation laws and produce reasonable results The degree of agreement and significance of the comparisons differ among the models evaluated 20 figs 26 tabs New Benchmark Calculations for the ALEGRA-MHD Code, 2013 Accuracy of HEMP Code Solutions, 1973 Results of HEMP code calculations of simple problems are compared with exact results to determine the accuracy with which this numerical technique solves initial boundary value problems More complicated problems of metal liners accelerated by explosives were also calculated with this code and these results were compared with experimental results to determine how well the code simulates these physical processes It is concluded that HEMP calculations are accurate enough to be useful as a tool for predicting the gross motion of metals accelerated by detonating explosives □□, 1973
