stakeholders perceived the 2008 reform and its effects on rural health services to explore the local population's perception of the NGO in service delivery and to measure the scope and describe the nature of perceived emergencies the related health care seeking behavior and health expenditure Methods Quantitative and qualitative methods were applied to tackle the research objectives Data collection for the health insurance study and the study of perceived emergencies was carried out through cross sectional household surveys For each of the studies 210 households were sampled with two stage cluster sampling Structured questionnaires were used with on the spot household interviews Focus group discussions with local stakeholders were performed to explore their perceived effects of the 2008 health reform The population's perception of the NGO was also studied through focus group discussions which were complemented by key informant interviews with local stakeholders Inductive qualitative content analysis focusing on the manifest content was applied Results 69% of interviewees were willing to join the presented community based health insurance scheme for 30 US per household and year Attitudes towards the scheme were positive and 92% of interviewees stated they would increase their health service utilization with affiliation The implementation of the 2008 health reform was perceived as topdown lacking communication However the reform's effects were mainly perceived as positive with free medical attendance and drugs Increased service utilization was described as leading to a relative shortage of drugs and appointments Access problems for remote dwellers were found who were described of having to seek private care also in emergencies The NGO and its services were perceived positively by the population due to health care improvements in the region The structure of the public private partnership was unclear leading to dissatisfaction Community participation was found to be rather weak Perceived emergencies occurred to at least 90 1 000 inhabitants in the past year Fever traumatic injury and abdominal pain were the most frequent chief complaints The first contacted providers in 57% of all cases were private for profit providers including traditional healers Public health services treated one third of all cases Health expenditure was found to be high and catastrophic health expenditure occurred in 24% of all cases Conclusions Prior to the 2008 reform community based health insurance was found to be feasible in the study region This financing instrument may have a role in the post reform system to cover services that the government does not yet sufficiently provide The effects of the 2008 reform were mainly perceived positively but an adjustment of the system is needed to improve the relative lack of drugs and appointments especially for remote dwellers Free health services may not be sufficient to reach universal health coverage for patients with perceived emergencies Changes in public emergency departments and improved financial protection for emergency patients may improve the situation The NGO's role was perceived positively by the population A lack of communication about the public private partnership and relatively weak community participation restricted the NGO's full potential and should be improved

Constructing the Craft of Public Administration Christine Shearer, 2021-11-11 This book draws on recent empirical research and reports unique insight into the craft of public administration of the most senior echelons of the Australian Public Service APS This work is set in the context of a comparative analysis of the significant public sector reforms by successive governments from the 1980s across Westminster polities. Such reforms and the contemporary management ideas on which they were based, including new managerialism and new public management (NPM), travelled, were translated and transformed, with some elements accepted and others rejected. This book addresses how the most senior public servants in the APS construct their craft today amid such reforms. Chapter two covers the myriad of public sector reforms across Westminster polities. Chapters three and four cover the environments and contemporary management ideas which influence public administration. Chapters five and six showcase the public actors and the responsibilities they execute when they construct their craft. The final chapter provides a conceptual model of the craft of public administration and provides implications for theory and practice. SSC

Polar Bears on the Edge Morten Jørgensen, 2015 Do you like polar bears? Do you want polar bears to be around in 50 years? Do you think that climate change is the only major threat to polar bear survival? Do you believe that polar bears are adequately protected today? Would you like to contribute to saving polar bears today and in the future? If your answer to any of those questions is yes, you need to read this book. This book is an eye opener and should kick off extensive debates. Dr Thor S Larsen, professor emeritus, Member of the IUCN Polar Bear Specialist Group 1968-1985. In this impassioned book, Morten raises very important provocative questions that are not being addressed by the international environmental groups. Art Wolfe, Award winning conservation photographer. In this book, the author analyses the current status of the polar bear. And he punctures the myth that polar bears are well protected and managed today. While most people think that global warming is the overhanging threat to polar bear survival, the author documents that it is actually the continuation of an unsustainable hunting pressure that is driving the species towards extinction Across 228 pages interspersed with beautiful photographs Morten Joergensen demonstrates how there are probably fewer polar bears than most authorities claim how hunting is the greatest manageable threat to the species how current protection measures are insufficient how the animal has been commercialized and how lack of courage and honesty is allowing this scenario to continue The book also contains a long string of realistic and very urgent recommendations for action to save polar bears before they are gone forever
