Berger, 2014-05-23 A SCIENTIFIC APPROACH TO WRITING Technical ideas may be solid or even groundbreaking but if these ideas cannot be clearly communicated reviewers of technical documents e g proposals for research funding articles submitted to scientific journals and business plans to commercialize technology are likely to reject the argument for advancing these ideas The problem is that many engineers and scientists entirely comfortable with the logic and principles of mathematics and science treat writing as if it possesses none of these attributes The absence of a systematic framework for writing often results in sentences that are difficult to follow or arguments that leave reviewers scratching their heads This book fixes that problem by presenting a scientific approach to writing that mirrors the sensibilities of scientists and engineers an approach based on an easily discernable set of principles Rather than merely stating rules for English grammar and composition this book explains the reasons behind these rules and shows that good reasons can guide every writing decision This resource is also well suited for the growing number of scientists and engineers in the U S and elsewhere who speak English as a second language as well as for anyone else who just wants to be understood The St. Martin's Guide to Writing Short Edition Rise B. Decolonisation of Materialities or Materialisation of (Re-)Colonisation Artwell Nhemachena, Jairo Kangira, 2017-11-28 Contemporary scholarly discourses about decolonising materialities are taking two noticeable trajectories the first trajectory privileges establishing connections relationships and associations between human beings and nature The second trajectory privileges restoration restitution reparations for colonial dispossessions lootings and disinheritance While the first trajectory presupposes that colonialism was merely about separation alienation and disconnections between human beings and nature the second trajectory stresses the colonialists dispossession disinheritance and privations of Africans Drawing on contemporary discourses about materialities in relation to semiotics non representationalism rhetoric ecocriticism territorialisation deterritorialisation and reterritorialisation translation animism science and technology studies this book teases out the intellectually rutted terrain of African materialities It argues that in a world of increasing impoverishment the significance of materialities cannot be overemphasised more so for the continent of Africa where impoverishment materialises in the midst of resource opulence The book is a pacesetter in no holds barred interrogation of African materialities
